Race and Wealth Inequities in Cook County’s Property Tax Relief Programs: Senior Assessment Freeze & Long-time Occupant Homestead Exemptions

2026 Addendum Overview of Tax Years 2022, 2023 & 2024

Introduction

In 2024, property tax exemptions in Cook County were estimated to have saved homeowners $1.6 billion in property taxes.¹ With over 1.8 million unique property parcels in Cook County and nine separate exemption programs available to homeowners, there is a significant challenge and burden in administering these increasing numbers of property tax relief exemptions.

TRAEN's Addendum focuses on the two income-based property tax exemptions: the Low-Income Senior Citizen Assessment Freeze Exemption (SFE), 35 ILCS 200/15-172, and the Long-Time Occupant Homeowner Exemption (LOHE), 35 ILCS 200/15- 177.

These two tax relief exemptions can yield significant—but also unintended—property tax savings depending on home market values, local tax rates, whether communities are predominantly composed of Black or white homeowners, and the extent to which assessment officials closely monitor exemption programs. Despite extensive public attention over the past five years on the inequities in the administration and distribution of these programs, the sections of the Illinois Property Tax Code that govern these exemptions have not been amended to address these disparities.

TRAEN focused on the largest property tax exemption breaks, and identified eight properties—representing 26% of the properties cited in the original TRAEN 2021 Study—that continue to appear among the thirty-one properties analyzed in TRAEN’s 2026 Exemption Study. TRAEN concluded that a majority of these properties should not have received either the Long-time Occupancy Exemption or the Low-Income Senior Freeze Exemption due to factors including neighborhood location, "sunsetting" or phasing out guidelines, income inconsistencies, occupancy and classification errors, or the presence of partial rental and commercial investment use.

In 2024, the 8 Homestead Exemptions increased to nine available to Cook County homeowners:

- Homeowner Exemption
- Senior Exemption
- Low-Income Senior Citizen Assessment Freeze Exemption, SFE
- Long-Time Occupant Homeowner Exemption, LOHE
- Persons with Disabilities Exemption
- Returning Veterans Exemption
- Veterans with Disabilities Exemption
- WWII Veterans Exemption

¹ Merriman & Weber, as reported in the Chicago Sun-Times.

The Senior Freeze was initiated in 1994, with a mandatory annual renewal application, as is standard for assessment jurisdictions nationwide. The income limits in Cook County and the remaining 101 Illinois counties increased over time:

- 1994–1998: $35,000
- 1999–2003: $40,000
- 2004–2005: $45,000
- 2006–2007: $50,000
- 2008–2016: $55,000
- 2017: $65,000 in Cook County; $55,000 elsewhere
- 2018–2025: $65,000 statewide
- 2026 (payable 2027): $75,000
- 2027: $77,000
- 2028 and after: $79,000

Low-Income Senior Freeze Exemption (SFE): A 45% increase in savings over two years, even with a 32% decline over seven years in Cook County applications

The exemption freezes the property’s Equalized Assessed Value (EAV) at a base year; it does not freeze the actual tax bill because tax rates and levies can still increase. In 2022, the Senior Freeze removed $8.4 billion in annual residential market value, $9.6 billion in 2023, and $11.8 billion in 2024; a 40% increase over three years. The estimated tax savings increased from $222 million in 2022 to $263.8 million in 2023 and $322 million in 2024. The savings and market value surge in 2024 is due to the reassessment of the City of Chicago and a fast-growing aging population. The SFE reflected a 45% increase in property tax savings of $100 million in just two years.

In 2018, the SFE had 160,956 applicants in Cook County; by 2024 the applicants dropped to 108,895, a 32% application decline. Throughout Illinois in 2018, there were 369,169 SFE applicants; by 2024, the number of applicants dropped to 298,188, a 19% decline.

From 2017 to 2025, a 9-year period, the Senior Freeze Exemption’s annual total household income limit remained fixed at $65,000. According to the U. S. Bureau of Labor Statistics’ Consumer Price Index, when adjusted for inflation, an income of $87,059 in January 2026 was equal to an income of $65,000 in January 2017.²

In 2026, the annual total household income limit was increased to $75,000 (taxes payable in 2027), to $77,000 for Tax Year 2027, and to $79,000 for Tax Year 2028.

Long-Time Occupant Homeowner Exemption (LOHE): At its peak in 2009 there were 105,227 successful applicants. Now, in 2025, there are only 670.

Introduced in 2007, the Long-time Occupant Homeowner Exemption, LOHE, was intended to prevent the displacement of long-time residents in gentrifying communities. Eligibility for the LOHE is determined by a 10-year length of residency, increases in a property’s assessment, and the homeowner’s annual income. When applying for the LOHE in 2007, the homeowner had to have resided in the home for 10 years starting in 1997.

In 2005–2007, the average U.S. homeowner typically remained in a home for approximately six to 6.5 years before selling. By 2025, homeowner tenure had increased significantly, with national studies reporting ownership periods ranging from approximately 8.5 years to twelve years.³

There has been a significant decline in the number of properties receiving the LOHE. In 2026, the Cook County Assessor’s website reports that fewer than 11,000 homeowners, or 2%, annually receive it. According to the data from the Cook County Assessor’s Office, the actual number of approved applicants from the Cook County Assessor’s Office is much lower.

Between 2022 and 2024, the number of homeowners who have been approved by the Cook County Assessor’s Office exemption department for the LOHE declined from approximately 840 to 670 recipients.

The Illinois Property Tax Code sets two income-based tiers for determining LOHE eligibility:

Residency	Household Income	Required Annual Assessment Increase
10 Years	$75,000 or less	7% annual EAV increase threshold
10 Years	$75,000 - $100,000	10% annual EAV increase threshold

³ <https://www.Redfin.com/news/homeowner-tenure-12-years/>

The complexity of Cook County's LOHE eligibility has resulted in it being administered as an “invite-only” program. The Cook County Assessor’s Office makes an initial determination of a taxpayer’s 10-year residency eligibility, consults phasing out guidelines, and specified assessment increase percentages, and mails LOHE applications to those who are expected to qualify with the application each year.

Unlike standard homeowner exemptions, LOHE and SFE are income-based relief programs, so the Cook County Assessor relies heavily on cooperation with the Illinois Department of Revenue for income verification and auditing support.

Background

Cook County is divided into three property tax assessment jurisdictions⁴:

District 1	City of Chicago	8 Townships
District 2	North & Northwest Suburbs	13 Townships
District 3	South & Southwest Suburbs	17 Townships

TRAEN researchers, many of whom are members of the International Association of Assessing Officers (IAAO), have conducted exemption audits and reviewed income-based property tax relief programs in jurisdictions outside Illinois to identify best practices in administration, oversight, and accountability. TRAEN’s studies examine the public policy implications and administrative challenges associated with these programs. TRAEN’s focus has been to inform elected officials, media, academia, and the public stakeholders on the challenging administrative oversight of these nine property tax relief programs by the Cook County Assessor’s Office.

⁴ Cook County, Illinois Code of Ordinances, Chapter 74 Taxation, Section 74-31 Assessment Districts.

The Cook County Assessor's Office is responsible for determining eligibility for both income-based exemptions and relies upon the Illinois Department of Revenue to verify household income information for both the Senior Freeze Exemption (SFE) and the Long-time Occupant Homeowner Exemption (LOHE).

The Cook County Assessor's Office determines which properties may qualify for the LOHE based primarily on income levels and significant assessment increases. Eligible property owners are then mailed an application to verify household income. The premise that gentrification is a significant location-based factor in qualifying for the LOHE, together with compliance with the program's phase-out guidelines, has largely been overlooked.

In non-reassessment years, fewer properties experience substantial assessment increases within a reassessment district, which generally results in fewer properties qualifying for the exemption. In communities with lower residential market values, such as areas of Cook County District 3 where four townships have the largest populations of Black homeowners, savings from the standard Homeowner Exemption and Senior Citizen Exemption may be higher than in more affluent communities. The increased savings are the result of double-digit tax rates that can reach as high as 35%, 268% higher than the Cook County average of 9.5%. However, the increased exemption savings largely does not offset the higher overall taxes that result from double-digit tax rates.

Black communities that are less affluent also suffer from the highest rates of tax delinquency and foreclosures. Those homeowners who lose their properties do not meet the LOHE requirements of 10-year ownership and occupancy. Consequently, fewer residents in these townships are eligible to apply.

In areas with high-value properties, household incomes often exceed the LOHE income limits of $75,000 or $100,000, making many homeowners ineligible despite substantial assessment increases. However, the LOHE was intended to provide property tax relief in order to protect homeowners who are being threatened by gentrification. Affluent communities are stable and foreclosures or tax delinquencies rare.

For lower-income senior homeowners who qualify for multiple relief programs, the Cook County Assessor's Office generally grants the exemption providing the greatest benefit — either the Senior Freeze Exemption or the LOHE — provided all statutory requirements are satisfied.

Problems with Income-Based Exemptions

Because the SFE and LOHE exemptions can produce substantial property tax savings, yet lack caps tied to market value or Equalized Assessed Value (EAV), they have drifted from their original policy intent of providing targeted tax relief to fixed- and low-income seniors and homeowners vulnerable to displacement from gentrification. Combined with the difficulty of fully verifying true household income thresholds, both programs present an elevated risk of improper administrative approvals, inconsistent oversight, and inequitable distribution of benefits. Low- to moderate-income seniors and homeowners adversely impacted by development may only experience modest benefits compared to the very large tax breaks for owners of high-end and luxury homes in more affluent communities.

The LOHE is being phased out or “sunsetting.” TRAEN’s data shows that the two Cook County Assessment Districts for the South & Southwest suburbs and North & Northwest suburbs only had one successful LOHE applicant in 2023, the owner of a condo in Oak Park. None of the other condos in the 12-unit association received the LOHE for Tax Year 2023.

In 2024, these two suburban districts had seventy-three successful applicants. Successful applicants in District 2, North & Northwest suburbs, owned properties in the most affluent Northfield, Evanston, Leyden, and Maine Townships. Successful applicants in District 3, South & Southwest suburbs, owned properties in Berwyn, Bloom, Bremen, Cicero, Lemont, Lyons, Orland, Proviso, Rich, River Forest, Riverside, Thornton, and Worth Townships. Because the LOHE is in the process of being phased out, it is unclear why District 2 and District 3 would have only twenty-three successful applications for the LOHE across 2022-2023 and see a 32% increase in 2024 to seventy-three successful applicants.

Oversights by either applicants or the Cook County Assessor’s Office can result in improper approval. Because the Senior Freeze is based on total household income and not just applicant income, fluctuations in senior incomes or changes in household composition may inadvertently result in an erroneous exemption.

The Freeze (and other exemptions) are supposed to be removed upon the passing of the original applicant, and the Cook County Assessor may fail to detect a transfer of ownership due to a sale or a deed to a non-qualifying relative.

Methodology

In its 2021 and 2026 follow-up studies, TRAEN used the Cook County Assessor Office's subscription service to access assessment and exemption datasets for Cook County. This data was used to review the distribution of the Senior Freeze and Long-time exemptions across Cook County, as well as to examine the highest tax reductions granted for each exemption for Tax Years 2022, 2023, and 2024. Tax reductions from the SFE and LOHE were calculated using the actual tax rate for each individual parcel in the relevant tax year. 6

Identifying exemption outliers started with examination of the greatest savings potential, residential property classification and characteristics, dwelling unit counts, and mixed usage. TRAEN's researchers relied on state, county, and municipal agencies for sourcing data and performed on-site field inspections. Supplemental information concerning ownership, building use, and other relevant matters was sourced from the following websites and sources:

- Illinois Secretary of State's Business Search
- Illinois Department of Revenue (IDOR) MyDec transfer declaration database
- City of Chicago Department of Buildings & similar municipal permit databases
- Cook County Clerk's Recordings Division records
- Cook County and Chicago voting databases

- Midwest Real Estate Database, LLC (MRED) Multiple Listing Service
- CoStar Real Estate Database
- LinkedIn & similar professional profile sites
- Newspaper articles by the Chicago Sun-Times, Chicago Tribune, etc.
- On-site field inspections by TRAEN researchers

TRAEN isolated high-value properties receiving exemptions intended for low-income seniors and property owners at risk of property tax-induced displacement in each year for further investigation. Reviewing the administration of the exemptions with the greatest potential for savings and errors is a crucial step to better exemption performance.

Findings

The following chart identifies the top fifteen questionable applications of the Long-time Homeowner Exemption⁵:

LOHE Property Example #1 $21,533 New Gentrification Savings Awarded to a Medical Doctor & Construction Company Owner:

365 Shadowood Ln, Northfield, District 2

TRAEN identified an 11,643-square-foot mansion in the affluent northern suburb of Northfield with an estimated market value of $3.4 million. A medical doctor and his wife, who also own a construction company, purchased the original 2,611-square-foot single-story residence in 2007 for $975,000. During the following years, many longtime homeowners in the community were displaced by rapid gentrification and the redevelopment of large luxury homes.

The couple has occupied the property for more than 10 years. From 2019 through 2023, the property’s average annual tax bill was approximately $63,000, consistent with neighboring 9,000- to 11,000-square-foot luxury homes whose tax bills ranged from $65,000 to $82,000.

Despite the property’s extraordinary size, substantial market value, and location within a neighborhood experiencing rapid luxury redevelopment, the Cook County Assessor's Office approved the Long-time Occupant Homeowner Exemption for Tax Year 2024, resulting in a property tax reduction of $21,533. Annual property taxes declined from $79,870 to approximately $58,300. Rather than mitigating displacement pressures on longtime residents impacted by gentrification, the application of the LOHE in this instance appears to have rewarded the gentrifier rather than having prevented the displacement of the long-time homeowner.

In 2023, no homeowner in District 2 successfully filed for the LOHE. In 2024, only eight homeowners successfully filed for the LOHE.

LOHE Property Example #2 Application of tax breaks on two units listed for rent awarded $60,789 in property tax refunds: 1957 W. Superior St, Chicago

TRAEN identified a 3,386 square foot, two unit, 2-story building with an estimated market value of $1.4 million in West Chicago Township. In 2025, both apartments were listed for rent on Zillow. However, the three owner occupants are all registered voters in the 1st apartment, and claimed a Homeowner and a Senior Citizen exemption for the Tax Years 2024 and 2025.

The homeowner successfully applied for $38,289 in property back tax refunds for 2019, 2023, and 2024. The Assessor will go back as much as four years in refunding property taxes. The Assessor also approved tax bill adjustments for 2020 and 2021 totaling $22,500. The total tax relief granted amounted to $60,789. The exemptions should have been applied to only 50% of the property to reflect 50% owner occupancy as long as the apartment wasn't listed for rent.

The following chart identifies the top sixteen questionable Senior Freeze exemptions:

SFE Property Example #1: The Assessor records a 9,000 SF commercial space and a 1,818 SF apartment awarded a $31,291 tax exemption on entire building when it should have been $5,258: 3800 N Sheffield Ave, Chicago, District 1

TRAEN first identified in 2021, as the Sun-Times also reported, as well as in 2026 a 9,000 square foot warehouse with a 1,818 square foot two-bedroom apartment with an estimated market value of $2,160,000 in Chicago's Lake View Township. The warehouse was occupied by Cache Storage, the owner's business which is now closed. Despite being 83% commercial by area, the entire property has been receiving the Senior Freeze exemption since 2014. For Tax Year 2024, this Freeze exemption removed $31,291 in property taxes, reducing the original tax bill by 68%.

The unqualified commercial building continued to receive a $26,033 Senior Freeze tax break for five years as the Assessor's staff had not made corrections. The exemption should only be applied to the residential area, or 17% of the property. TRAEN estimates that the correct Senior Freeze savings are $5,258, with $724 in Homeowner Exemption and $579 in Senior Citizen Exemption savings. The total savings from the three property tax exemptions would be $6,561. The Senior Freeze was designed to help seniors pay the taxes on their primary place of residence. It was not intended to cover rentable residential and commercial space, even if the space is not rented and held vacant. The only changes made was by the owner who transferred the LLC into his name. The vacant commercial space still receives the senior freeze.

SFE Property Example #2: Highest Mansion Value at $7.1M awarded nineteen years of unqualified Senior Freeze savings of $693,790. Required to repay $294,889: 1055 Sheridan Rd, Winnetka, District 2

TRAEN identified in both its 2021 and 2026 studies that a 6,110 square foot lakefront luxury home on Sheridan Rd in Winnetka valued at $7.1 million was a Senior Freeze recipient. This property received 2023's highest Senior Freeze Exemption amount of $67,758. Annual taxes were $96,249 after the SFE, which is also 48% higher than the $65,000 income limit for Tax Year 2023. The mansion's owners did not qualify for the Freeze but received it for nineteen years, and eventually received an Erroneous Exemption notice from the Assessor's Office.

By reducing the property's annual taxes to $96,249, its taxes were $35,000 below the annual tax bill paid by a 40% smaller neighboring house, and $55,000 to $193,000 less than neighboring homes within the same 2-09 property class, which is for homes of 5,000 square feet or greater. TRAEN identified this property as erroneously receiving the Senior Freeze in its original 2021 study. The owner continued to receive the Senior Freeze until the Assessor recently corrected the error for the 2024 tax bill. In 2025, the Chicago Sun-Times reported that the owner owed $294,889⁶ to the Cook County Treasurer. TRAEN estimates that the owner's SFE tax breaks totaled $693,790 over the years that the SF exemption had been granted, and after repaying $294,889 to the Cook County Treasurer the taxpayer had still erroneously received a total unqualified $398,901 reduction in property taxes.

Subject 1055 Sheridan Rd had been receiving the Senior Freeze for many years despite not qualifying for the Exemption. Subject's 2023 taxes after the Freeze were $96,249 - 48% higher than the $65,000 maximum income limit.

After TRAEN's investigation, the Assessor's Office issued a 2024 Erroneous Exemption notice for the prior years 2019-2023. The Chicago Sun-Times reported that the owner had to pay $294,889 to the county for erroneously claiming the Freeze. TRAEN estimates that late interest would have added an additional $23,508 in fines for a total of $318,397.

SFE Property Example #3: Assessor records a 3,888 SF 8 bay car used as commercial and a 1,540 SF home award for two years $53,679 tax exemption on entire buildings: 1724 W Altgeld St, Chicago, District 1

TRAEN's research identified a 1-story, 1,540 square foot house with a 3,888 square foot 8 car garage in Chicago's Lakeview Township. This house is located on a unique triangular "island" parcel surrounded by alleys and street-facing homes. The property, valued at $2.43 million in 2023 and $1.25 million in 2024, received the Senior Freeze for both years for a combined two year exemption savings of $53,679.

Adjacent to the 1,540 square foot residence, separated by a chain link fence, is the 3,888 square foot 8 bay car garage described by the Assessor as containing an 8 bay garage and storage space. The actual improvement is identified as the location of a family-owned and -operated business incorporated and registered with the Illinois Secretary of State. Despite 72% of the improvements being commercial, the entire property has been receiving the Senior Freeze exemption. The SFE was designed to help seniors pay the taxes on their primary place of residence, but in this example, the SFE is reducing the taxes on property that is primarily commercial space.

Recent Illinois Legislation to Add or Modify Cook County’s Nine Property Tax Relief Exemptions

Illinois legislative proposals and administrative initiatives since TRAEN’s 2021 study have focused on expanding, modifying, or streamlining the administration of Cook County’s nine homeowner property tax exemptions. These proposals primarily involve income-based exemptions, senior relief programs, veterans’ benefits, and long-term homeowner protections.

Recent legislation has included proposals to:

- Automatically renew the Senior Freeze Exemption without annual application and increase data-sharing authority between state agency and county assessment officials;
- Expand access to exemptions for veterans and first responders, as well as their surviving spouses and parents (including legislation passed in the 2023-2024 session);
- Modify income qualifications for the Senior Citizen & Senior Freeze exemptions;
- Grant 30-year residents 100% exemption from property taxes; and
- Increase administrative coordination between government agencies.

TRAEN has monitored Illinois legislation that attempts to modify or expand the existing nine Illinois property tax exemptions for decades. For example, legislation recently increased the low-income Senior Freeze Exemption income threshold from $65,000 to $75,000 and will further increase the limit to $79,000 over the next three years. TRAEN supported this change as the income threshold had not changed for nearly a decade, ignoring consumer price and inflation rate indexes.

TRAEN reviewed four recent property tax exemption bills for this study. Senate Bill 1750 was introduced with the support of the Cook County Assessor's Office to allow the Cook County Senior Freeze Exemption (SFE) to be automatically renewed without requiring applicants to annually submit updated household income information. In 2020, the Cook County Assessor's Office allowed the Senior Freeze to rollover without re-application for just that year, contrary to the later recommendation and cautions of TRAEN's initial 2021 Senior Freeze and LOHE study.

If enacted, SB 1750 would also authorize the Cook County Assessor's Office to request Social Security numbers and obtain Illinois income tax return information from the Illinois Department of Revenue (IDOR) in order to automatically renew Senior Freeze exemptions, even in circumstances where taxpayers may no longer qualify or may choose not to reapply due to increased household income.

The legislation would significantly expand the Cook County Assessor's access to sensitive personal and financial information, including taxpayer identification and FEIN-related household financial data. Such authority represents a substantial departure from the Assessor's traditional core responsibilities, which include establishing market values, placing new construction on the tax rolls, hearing assessment appeals, issuing refunds, and administering the county's nine property tax relief exemptions.

Automatic renewal of an income-based exemption such as the Senior Freeze raises substantial concerns of administrative overreach regarding taxpayer privacy and data security. Under the proposed legislation, exemptions could potentially be renewed without a direct application or affirmative annual certification from the taxpayer, even where taxpayers are aware they may no longer meet eligibility requirements; the Cook County Assessor's Office could review the taxpayer's income status annually without taxpayer consent. SB 1750 would create a system in which exemption personnel could effectively evaluate and approve benefits absent meaningful taxpayer participation or verification.

Such a process raises serious due process and accountability concerns while expanding local government access to confidential financial information. These concerns are compounded when exemption databases already exhibit significant data integrity and oversight deficiencies, already identified within the administration of Cook County exemption databases. Staff of the Cook County Assessor's Office have testified in the bill's favor at a Senate Revenue Committee Hearing.⁷ SB 1750 has not been passed by the Illinois legislature.

⁷ Testimony witnessed by TRAEN members. A staff member of the Cook County Assessor Office was listed as a 'proponent' on SB 1750's witness slips.

Senate Bill 1862, introduced in the 2025-2026 legislative session, would grant a 100% property tax exemption to 30-year residents, but subject to annual re-application. Its introduction would likely supplant the Senior Freeze and sunset the LOHE for many homeowners in Cook County.

SB 1862, as currently proposed, would add a tenth possible exemption for Cook County property owners. The 30-Year Property Homestead Exemption would not have income thresholds, or market value or EAV caps, in addition to the residency requirement. Even the LOHE, which is being phased out, has an income threshold and is based on changes to a property's market value. Without caps on the market value or EAV of the property, the new 30-Year Property Homestead Exemption would even make high-end luxury homes tax-exempt.

TRAEN opposes this proposal, as written, as it is similar to California's Prop 13, also called the "Welcome, Stranger" law.⁸ If passed it would create dramatically different property tax bills for neighbors living in similar homes based primarily on the date of their purchase, with new buyers shouldering a disproportionate share of local property taxes. This exemption has the potential to remove billions of dollars in taxable value from the assessment system of Illinois, especially Cook County, by exempting significant parts of the tax base.

The U.S. Census Bureau's QuickFacts estimates that as of 2025 there are 2.3 million homes in Cook County with an owner-occupancy rate of 57.7%, or 1.2 million owner-occupied households in Cook County.⁹ Nationally, approximately 14.5% of homeowners have lived in the same home for more than 30 years, which in Cook County would translate to 175,000 homeowners or more potentially qualifying for the new exemption.¹⁰ These homeowners are also more likely to be older.¹¹ As a result, SB 1862 is likely to put an increased burden on new arrivals to the state, recent homebuyers, and younger property owners.

SB 1774 was introduced during the 2021-2022 legislative session to remove dividend income from SFE income eligibility that currently includes non-taxable or retirement-related income toward "total household income," such as:

- dividends,
- interest income,
- annuity payments,
- retirement distributions,
- and other federally reportable income items.

Total annual household income changes annually due to Social Security income, annuities, pensions, investment income, and all household occupants' income sources. SB 1774 would weaken the intent of the SFE which provides much needed property tax relief for low income seniors by excluding potential significant sources of revenue. The bill did not pass.

House Bill 1115 was introduced for the creation of a Gold Star Parent homestead exemption. In taxable year 2025, homestead property that is owned and used as a primary residence by a Gold Star Parent of a veteran who was killed in the line of duty would be exempt from taxation. Each taxpayer who has been granted an exemption under this Section must reapply on an annual basis. TRAEN would support this bill but it did not pass.

TRAEN introduced legislation in 2014, under the sponsorship of Senator Terry Link, to allow World War II veterans to be removed from the property tax rolls. At the time there were an estimated 70,000 WWII veterans in Illinois, however the bill did not pass. A decade later, in 2024, the bill passed, allowing veterans who served during World War II to be exempt from paying property taxes on their primary residences, regardless of their disability status. Those benefits extend to unmarried, surviving spouses of World War II veterans who passed due to a service-connected death. Unfortunately, the National WWII Museum estimates that as of 2025 there were only 1,724 living WWII veterans in Illinois.¹²

Since 1999, TRAEN has introduced and supported property tax policy in state legislation, as well as municipal and county ordinances. The hallmarks of TRAEN's successful amendments to the Illinois Property Tax Code include strengthening taxpayer due process and notification rights, modifying preclusions of Erroneous Exemptions, expanding the right to appeal omitted assessments before county boards of review, addressing property tax payment issues, and incorporating factors such as household income, market value caps, gentrification pressures, and excessive foreclosure activity into the administration of exemptions and reassessment valuations. See Appendix chart, Initiated Legislation 1999-2026.

Unintended Effects and Administrative Discrepancies of the SFE and LOHE:

Unlike the LOHE, the SFE was broadly distributed across Cook County for Tax Years 2022, 2023, and 2024 with concentrations in the City of Chicago (Lake, Jefferson, Hyde Park, West Chicago Townships) and a largely even spread in the suburbs. Chicago's south and west sides, along with the adjacent suburban communities in Rich, Thornton, Calumet and Bloom Townships, tend to be less affluent and have significant Black and Brown communities. Chicago's north and northwest sides and their adjacent suburbs of New Trier, Norwood Park, Northfield, Wheeling, and Palatine tend to be white and are especially affluent along the northern lakefront.

Individual property owners in Chicago's wealthy north suburbs and northern lakefront are the recipients of exemption savings as high as $67,758, which means that property owners with luxury homes are saving more in taxes than the current income threshold for the Senior Freeze.

The Long-time Occupant Homeowner Exemption was designed with a combined capped income potential of $75,000, later raised to $100,000, to protect lower- to middle-class homeowners from gentrification. The LOHE was intended to help long-time homeowners remain in their homes in areas experiencing rapid increases in property values, taxes, or gentrification pressures like rapid redevelopment.

However, the LOHE does not have a cap on the home's market value, hence homeowners owning $1 million and even multi-million dollar mansions, who are highly unlikely victims of gentrification, took advantage of this property tax exemption. TRAEN identified, and the Sun-Times' reports confirmed, dozens of multi-million dollar mansions, high-end condos, and mixed-use commercial and rental housing that took advantage of the new LOHE savings.

In at least one instance, TRAEN disclosed internal problems with the administration of the LOHE to the Cook County Assessor's Office's Exemption Department. A property had been issued an LOHE even though its owner had not met the 10-year residency requirement. Property information in the Assessor's database was internally adjusted to make the property appear as though it was occupied (see Appendix 25 of TRAEN's 2021 study), but it was in fact new construction and not occupied.

Properties receiving the LOHE in all three tax years were overwhelmingly concentrated within District 1 (City of Chicago) and particularly in West Chicago Township, just west of Chicago's central business district, which is an area that has experienced substantial gentrification that disproportionately affects low-income Black and Hispanic homeowners.

Compared to the Senior Freeze, the highest LOHE savings observed across 2022, 2023, and 2024 for a recipient of the LOHE was $27,744. The recipient of the greatest savings across all three years was always in West Chicago Township, but elevated savings were also observed in wealthy communities such as North Chicago, South Chicago, and Lake View Townships (downtown Chicago and its northern lakefront) as well as in Oak Park Township, a suburb adjacent to West Chicago Township and significantly further west than the areas experiencing gentrification.

For Tax Year 2023, all but one of the properties receiving the LOHE were located within the City of Chicago. This marked a significant shift from Tax Year 2022, when approximately 3% of recipients were in suburban townships. Even though Chicago townships underwent reassessment in 2024, the share of LOHE recipients in suburban districts increased to 11%.

This addendum study analyzed exemption data for Tax Years 2022, 2023, and the most recent available data for Tax Year 2024, which impacts the second-installment tax bills payable in 2025. However, the Cook County Assessor 2024 exemption data output contains numerous apparent data integrity and administrative reporting issues.

Properties receiving the Senior Freeze or the Long-time Exemptions were frequently mislabeled under the Persons with Disabilities Exemption or the general Homeowner Exemption. As a result, exemption reductions associated with these programs may not have been properly reflected on 2024 tax bills paid in 2025.

In addition, properties that had received exemptions in prior tax years, but no longer qualified, continued to appear within the Cook County Assessor's database as active exemption recipients. The database also contained Property Index Numbers (PINs) that no longer existed as of 2024, but which may have been associated with historical exemption records. Furthermore, exemptions that may have been improperly removed or not processed could require correction through tax refunds or Certificates of Error.

In 2025, the Cook County Assessor’s Office exemption administration and related IT system issues have reportedly contributed to more than $2 million in delayed taxpayer refunds outstanding for over seventeen months. Collectively, these inconsistencies raise significant concerns regarding the reliability, transparency, accuracy, and administrative oversight of exemption reporting and taxpayer record management within the Cook County property tax assessment system.

Race-Based Comparison of Senior Freeze Exemption Benefits

For the three years 2022, 2023, and 2024, TRAEN examined the value of Senior Freeze exemptions to determine if benefits were disproportionately distributed based on race. The four District 3 townships of Rich, Thornton, Calumet, and Bloom were selected because they have the highest concentration of Black homeowners. Five District 2 townships of New Trier, Norwood Park, Northfield, Wheeling, and Palatine were chosen for comparison because they have some of the highest concentrations of white homeowners.

Number of Parcels A larger number of white townships were chosen to equalize the sample size of parcels between the two groups. However, even with the addition of a fifth white township, there is an overall parcel count difference of 3,693 (13%) more parcels in the four Black townships, or 31,728 parcels vs. 28,035 parcels. This statistical difference is believed to have little to no impact on the following analysis.

Over the three years of study, the Senior Freeze removed 89% more in market value for properties in the five white Townships than for properties in the four Black Townships. The disparity also held on a per-parcel basis, with an average of $100,299 in market value removed per parcel in the white townships studied vs. $46,953 per parcel in the Black townships. The difference is largely a reflection of the greater average home value for white homeowners.

White townships also benefited from slightly higher per parcel tax savings (Market Value x 10% x State Equalizer x Local Tax Rate) from the overall Senior Freeze, with $2,670 vs $2,519 in per parcel savings. The estimated total Senior Freeze savings and average savings per parcel were also higher for white township homeowners.

Senior Freeze Effect	4 Black Townships	5 white Townships
of Parcels	31,728	28,035
Market Value Removed	$1.5 Billion	$2.8 Billion
Avg. MV Removed per Parcel	$46,953	$100,299
Tax Dollar Savings	$79.9 Million	$74.8 Million
Avg. Savings per Parcel	$2,519	$2,670
Avg. Savings per Parcel @ 8.8%	$1,221	--

The sole factor propping up benefit numbers for Black townships is their extraordinarily high average local tax rate of 18.4% vs. 8.5% in white townships, which is small consolation for the excessively high tax liability resulting from these high tax rates.

Areas within the Black townships having property tax rates that are almost 116% higher than majority-white townships is inequitable and appears to have constitutional ramifications. Majority-Black neighborhoods face disproportionately high property tax burdens, and these disparities have frequently triggered significant constitutional and civil rights litigation.

An additional comparison is that if the Senior Freeze benefits in Black townships were subject to an 8.8% average tax rate, the total Senior Freeze savings in Black townships would drop from $79.9 million to $38.7 million and per parcel savings would drop from $2,519 to $1,221.

Wide disparities in property tax rates in the predominantly Black townships creates higher rates of property tax delinquency and foreclosure. Chicago is divided into 8 Townships for assessment purposes. Census data does not exist by township for Chicago; the median of the Median Household Incomes for ZIP codes located within the township borders was used to determine the median income.

 Black Townships

TRAEN's 2026 Addendum confirms the conclusions of the initial 2021 study in demonstrating that Senior Freeze benefits are disproportionately applied to homeowners in predominantly white townships. Moreover, this inequity is understated by average tax rates in Black townships that are 116% higher (18.4% vs. 8.5%) than tax rates in white townships. The highest tax rates reach 34.4% in the four Black townships but only 12.76% in the five white townships. Also note the median household incomes for the predominantly Black townships average $62,925 versus an average of $124,155 for the predominantly white townships.

Impact on Primary Elections for Cook County Assessor

In the March 17, 2026 Chicago Democratic primary for the office of Cook County Assessor, thirteen out of fifteen (87%) of Chicago's predominantly Black wards, along with 100% of Cook County's predominantly Black four suburban townships, voted for a new Assessor over the eight-year incumbent. This overwhelming pattern reflects a growing recognition among Black property owners of the inequities within Cook County's current assessment and property tax exemption systems.

TRAEN Solutions

When searching for solutions to Illinois' property tax exemption challenges, policymakers should look beyond Illinois to assessment jurisdictions in other states. Illinois has one of the nation's largest numbers of separate statutory property tax exemptions, many of which function as temporary "band-aid" solutions while creating significant administrative burdens and inequities.

Erroneous Exemption Notices Case Study

When exemptions are granted in error, the Cook County Assessor's Office is required to revoke them and issue Erroneous Exemption notices to taxpayers. From 2014 through 2025, the Cook County Assessor's Office filed 2,828 liens with the Cook County Recorder of Deeds, totaling approximately $13.5 million, against homeowners and property owners of multi-unit homes.¹³ The Cook County Assessor's Office's Erroneous Investigations Unit expends significant administrative resources investigating and determining whether homeowners or senior citizens improperly received one or more of Cook County's property tax exemptions.

One of the most vexing problems occurs when a homeowner receives a Cook County Assessor's Office's unregistered, standard USPS mail notice that notifies of both the removal of exemptions and of demands for back tax payments when a homeowner has recorded ownership of their primary residence and/or other residential properties in a Limited Liability Corporation (LLC) to reduce fraud risks. The notice has a presumption of guilt on the part of the homeowner, stating that failure to pay within 30 days of posting of the violation “may subject you to the full force of penalties, interest, and other statutory repercussions”.

In most cases, Illinois prohibits LLC-owned properties from receiving exemptions as exemptions are intended for individual occupants, not investment entities¹⁴. Homestead-type exemptions—such as the General Homestead Exemption, Senior Exemption, Senior Freeze, Veterans, and the Long-Time Occupant—state that if title to a home is held in the name of an LLC the home is not eligible for exemptions because the legal owner is considered a separate business entity rather than an individual homeowner. Exemptions were created to provide tax relief to people using the property as their primary residence. Legislators sought to prevent landlords, speculators, corporate owners, investment or vacant properties, second homes, commercial property not used as a principal residence, and LLC-owned properties, where no natural person both occupies and holds the qualifying ownership interest, from receiving benefits intended for owner-occupants.

In one LLC erroneous exemption example, an 83-year-old Chicago homeowner was required to appear at an Erroneous Exemption hearing to challenge the Cook County’s demand that the homeowner repay five back years of homeowner and senior citizen exemptions savings that totaled $8,000.

The senior homeowner had occupied his primary residence for forty-seven years. He has received a homeowner exemption since 1979 and a senior exemption since 2008. His six other residential properties that he managed were also under LLCs but in each the homeowner was disclosed by name as the only owner. None of the other six residential properties had exemptions.

At a prehearing negotiation, rather than examine the structure of the owner’s LLC, in which his name was fully disclosed as both the resident-owner and manager, the Assessor’s Office offered to discount the $8,000 back payment demand to $6,000. The homeowner decided to proceed with the Administrative Tax Hearing at which he was able to prove that he had a lease, thus proving that he met the Illinois homestead qualification that he occupied the primary home, had no exemptions elsewhere, was the occupant having a legal leasehold, ownership interest and was directly liable for the property tax payments. The evidence of this was on his Quit Claim Deed transferring ownership from him personally to his LLC that cited him as both the Grantor and Grantee of the LLC. Therefore, there was no attempt to hide the owner’s identification in order to take unqualified multiple exemptions. His back tax demand for $8,000 was dismissed.

However, the experience was deeply upsetting for the 83-year-old homeowner. The presumption of guilt in the Assessor's back tax demand notice, and the initial offer from the Assessor to reduce the penalty amount, made him feel he had done something underhanded. The senior had never missed a property tax payment. When taxpayers receive Erroneous Exemption Notices that effectively presume they attempted to defraud or exploit the exemption system, or take advantage of administrative gaps for unintended benefits, it is understandable that they become distressed and lose confidence in the fairness and integrity of the property tax system.

Rather than issuing what are effectively collection notices demanding thousands of dollars within 30 days, the Assessor's Office should strengthen its investigative procedures, verify the accuracy of its findings, particularly regarding the ownership structure and intent of LLCs, and exercise reasonable judgment before imposing substantial tax liabilities on property owners

TRAEN's Senate Bill 2929 would require the Cook County Assessor's Office, which currently relies only on the Warranty Deed, to send back tax notices with most recent up-to-date accurate taxpayer names and mailing addresses provided by the Cook County Treasurer's Office and in the Illinois Secretary of State Department of Business Services database.

SB 2929 would require these back tax demand notices be sent by certified mail, return receipt requested, as other assessment jurisdictions require. Correcting these errors and non-errors requires the Assessor's Office to conduct exemption hearings and coordinate with the State's Attorney's Office and administrative law judges. These resource-intensive efforts divert the Cook County Assessor from its core constitutional and administrative responsibilities: estimating market value, placing new construction and improvements on the tax rolls, hearing assessment appeals, and issuing property tax refunds related to errors and omissions.

Nonetheless, when taxpayers receive exemptions for which they are not legally qualified, the resulting loss in tax revenue shifts the burden onto other property owners, causing homeowners to pay more than their fair share of property taxes. Maintaining a fair and equitable distribution of the property tax burden among homeowners is essential to rebuilding the public's confidence in these property tax relief programs. Illinois has nine separate statutory property tax exemptions:

- General Homestead
- Senior Homestead
- Senior Freeze
- Disabled Persons
- Disabled Veterans
- Returning Veterans
- Long-Time Occupant Homestead Exemption (Applied by Assessor)
- WWII Veterans
- Home Improvement Exemption (Applied by Assessor)

Texas is often viewed as having the broadest exemption structure because exemptions stack together and it has expanded its school homestead exemption:

- Standard homestead exemption
- Over-65 exemption
- Disability exemption
- Disabled veteran exemptions up to full tax elimination
- Surviving spouse exemptions
- Appraisal caps
- Local optional exemptions

Florida has the strongest constitutional protection in its assessment cap system, one of the strongest anti-tax-increase systems in the country. Florida combines:

- Homestead exemptions
- “Save Our Homes” annual assessment cap
- Senior exemptions
- Veteran exemptions
- Widow/widower exemptions

TRAEN recommends that the legislature, with the support of Cook County, pass an amendment cap on triennial reassessment increases on residences to no more than 2% per year, unless there is a sale or new construction, as seen in Florida’s “Save Our Homes” program. Illinois and Cook County policymakers should explore the Texas appraisal caps. Application of these caps would alleviate the need for so many separate statutory property tax exemptions, and allow control for excessive property tax increases exceeding the rate of inflation and the ability to pay.

Following national standards governing income-based property tax exemptions, it would be unsound public policy to give the Cook County Assessor the power to automatically rollover the Low-Income Senior Citizen Assessment Freeze Exemption. Automatic rollover of any income-based property tax exemption reduces oversight and weakens taxpayer accountability. Even with expanded access to taxpayer information, the absence of regular audits and annual verification increases — rather than decreases — the risk of fraud and need for administrative oversight.

The fact that some properties receive tax savings far exceeding the program’s intended income-based purpose demonstrates the need for more rigorous auditing by the Cook County Assessor. The Cook County Assessor should establish a highly trained and skilled exemption audit department to identify and investigate outliers in all property tax exemption programs. All back taxation notices for erroneous exemptions and omitted assessments should be sent by certified mail after obtaining accurate, current ownership addresses.

The administration of exemptions in Cook County continued to face criticism well after TRAEN’s 2021 initial study because some of the same high-value homes continued to qualify, receiving large tax benefits, leading to a recent 2025 abuse report.¹⁵ TRAEN encourages market value caps or EAV caps on the SFE, LOHE, and the Veterans with Disabilities Exemption. Rigorous auditing standards should be in place for these income-based exemptions. Moreover, even when examining the SFE, LOHE, or Veterans with Disabilities Exemption, Cook County Assessor staff should review if the applicant resides in mixed-use or multi-unit housing, where the tax exemption should be applied only to the applicant's unit of residence, and not to parts of the property that are producing rental income or vacant.

The Assessor's Office should consistently review new applications to the LOHE and the SFE, particularly high-savings outlier properties located in affluent areas of Chicago and suburban Cook County that are clearly unqualified and continue to be placed in error into these programs, meant for protecting lower- to middle-class homeowners, undergoing rapid development and some relief from escalating property taxes. These applicants warrant closer review to ensure compliance with statutory eligibility requirements and to protect the equitable distribution of the property tax burden.

Less affluent Black communities within Cook County's District 3 have the highest rates of tax delinquency and foreclosures, and they are often denied eligibility for the LOHE because Black homeowners cannot meet the required 10-year ownership threshold. See the 2018 TRAEN foreclosure study, Impact of Over Assessments: Where Foreclosure Distressed Sales Over Populate the Housing Landscape, A Foreclosure Study in South and Southwestern Cook County Assessment Districts.

TRAEN recommends modifications to future Long-Time Occupant Homeowner Exemption programs to better benefit Black homeowners and communities disproportionately impacted by displacement pressures. Proposed reforms include reducing the residency requirement from ten years to five years and incorporating neighborhood-based eligibility factors such as median household income, crime rates, foreclosure activity, and chronic property tax delinquency levels. Property tax relief should also be more precisely targeted toward Black homeowners experiencing rapid assessment increases caused by neighborhood appreciation, redevelopment, and gentrification pressures that threaten long-term housing stability and increase the risk of displacement.

For more than two years, the Cook County Treasurer's and Cook County Assessor's administrations' 2024-2026 exemption and exemption refund databases have had significant technical and data integrity problems that have not been resolved to date. When exemption and assessment databases, and staff trained in the approval of these exemptions, fail to capture rental and commercial mixed-use classifications and income qualification accurately, the risk of improper exemptions, fraud, and oversight failures substantially increases. Reliable data integrity and independent auditing are essential safeguards for maintaining public confidence in income-based property tax relief programs.

TRAEN is hopeful that newly elected Illinois legislators, along with the incoming administrations of the Cook County Assessor's and Treasurer's offices, will bring all stakeholders to the property taxation table. Taxpayers, taxing districts, township assessors, county assessors, supervisors of assessments, and county boards of review must all be recognized as essential partners in developing meaningful solutions to Illinois' property tax assessment and exemption systems.

Illinois has the highest property tax burden in the nation, with approximately $34 billion collected statewide, including $19.2 billion from Cook County alone, where an estimated $1.6 billion in property tax relief is granted annually through eight major exemption programs.

Illinois' numerous property tax exemptions are overly relied upon to address serious systemic tax problems, yet the exemptions themselves often create additional inequities and unintended disparities.

Property taxes remain among the most regressive forms of taxation because they are based on ownership of a fixed asset rather than a taxpayer's actual ability to pay, and real estate is often not easily liquidated to meet rising tax obligations. A study by the Cook County Treasurer's Office examining data over 30 years 1994-2024 shows that taxes have outpaced the state's inflation rate.¹⁶ Other challenges include the U.S. Supreme Court's 2023 ruling in Tyler v. Hennepin County, which found that the property tax sales system of Minnesota was unlawful. While Minnesota reformed its property tax sales system following the ruling, Illinois' similar property tax sale system, which in Cook County is administered exclusively by the Cook County Treasurer's Office, was affirmed as unlawful by a federal judge in a ruling drawing on Tyler v. Hennepin in 2025.¹⁷

The expertise, professionalism, reliability, and accountability of assessment officials and valuation professionals are essential to maintaining equitable, transparent, and uniform ad valorem property tax systems.

Empowering stakeholders to work cooperatively in addressing Illinois' and Cook County's complex exemption systems will strengthen checks and balances, improve transparency, enhance public confidence, and encourage broader public engagement in the administration of property taxation.

APPLICATION ENCLOSED:
Longtime Homeowner Exemption

Dear Homeowner,

At the Cook County Assessor's Office, we administer many exemptions that can provide hundreds of dollars in property tax savings for homeowners who reside in Cook County.

We are sending you this Longtime Homeowner Exemption application because your home's assessed value has increased significantly, potentially qualifying you. This packet will help you determine whether you meet the other requirements, based on rules set by state law.

What is the Longtime Homeowner Exemption?

The Longtime Homeowner Exemption provides property tax savings to a homeowner that meets the following criteria.

1. Reside in the home for 10 years or more.
2. A total household income of $100,000 or less for the 2024 income tax year.
3. Assessed value of home has increased significantly.

If you meet all requirements and would like to apply: please return the completed application in the enclosed envelope by May 15, 2026. All requirements must be met in order to qualify.

What other exemptions can the Longtime Homeowner Exemption be combined with?

- This exemption can be combined with the following; Persons with Disabilities, Veterans with Disabilities, Returning Veterans, and Senior Exemption. Learn more at: cookcountyassessoril.gov/exemptions
- Under state law, the Longtime Homeowner Exemption cannot be combined with the "Senior Freeze" Exemption. If you are eligible for both and apply for both, the most beneficial exemption will be applied to your property tax bill.

Exemptions result in property tax savings later this year.

Exemption savings are applied to the second installment property tax bill issued later this year.

In most cases, Illinois law does not permit property tax exemptions on LLC-owned residential properties. However, an exception to this general practice is documented in the 2026 TRAEN study (pp. 28–29). In that case, the LLC identified a single individual as both the resident-owner and LLC manager, holding a valid legal leasehold interest in the property. The resident-owner personally paid his home's real estate taxes. The alleged erroneous homeowner and senior exemptions penalty of $8,000 was dismissed.

In most cases, Illinois law does not permit property tax exemptions on LLC-owned residential properties. However, an exception to this general practice is documented in the 2026 TRAEN study (pp. 28–29). In that case, the LLC identified a single individual as both the resident-owner and LLC manager, holding a valid legal leasehold interest in the property. The resident-owner personally paid his home's real estate taxes. The alleged erroneous homeowner and senior exemptions penalty of $8,000 was dismissed.

In most cases, Illinois law does not permit property tax exemptions on LLC-owned residential properties. However, an exception to this general practice is documented in the 2026 TRAEN study (pp. 28–29). In that case, the LLC identified a single individual as both the resident-owner and LLC manager, holding a valid legal leasehold interest in the property. The resident-owner personally paid his home's real estate taxes. The alleged erroneous homeowner and senior exemptions penalty of $8,000 was dismissed.

Subject 1055 Sheridan Rd had been receiving the Senior Freeze for many years despite not qualifying for the Exemption. Subject's 2023 taxes after the Freeze were $96,249 - 48% higher than the $65,000 maximum income limit.

After TRAEN's investigation, the Assessor's Office issued an Erroneous Exemption notice for multiple prior years. The Chicago Sun-Times reported that the owner had to pay $294,889 to the county for erroneously claiming the Freeze. TRAEN estimates that late interest would have added an additional $23,508 in fines for a total of $318,397.

Property also identified in TRAEN's 2021 study, and identified again in 2026.

Chicago Waterproofing Masonry Protection / I Specialists

We helped transform a home on Windy City Rehab Season 3, Episode 9 "From the Ground Up." Click here to read more.

ROMA Waterproofing Chicago provides professional waterproofing designed for residential / commercial masonry projects throughout the surrounding suburbs. Our expertise includes masonry brick waterproofing, CMU & block waterproofing, air & vapor installation, exterior caulking, and related building envelope systems. With decades of local experience, we deliver solution structures from moisture intrusion, freeze-thaw cycling, and deterioration.

Why Professional Waterproofing Matters in Chicago

Chicago's climate puts masonry and building exteriors to the test. With frequent extreme temperature fluctuations, masonry and block assemblies are vulnerable to moisture intrusion, structural cracking, and freeze-thaw damage. Professional waterproofing helps prevent:

- Water seepage into walls and foundations
- Efflorescence and surface staining
- Freeze-thaw spalling and cracking
- Interior moisture and mold development

Effective waterproofing protects both the building's performance and longevity.

The Department of Erroneous Homestead Exemption Administrative Hearings has received your request for an administrative hearing to protest your liability for alleged erroneous homestead exemption (s) applied to the property identified by the above-referenced property index number(s). By order of the Department of Erroneous Homestead Exemption Administrative Hearings, the date, time, and place of the hearing are as follows:

Date: May 14, 2026

Time: 9:30 am

Location: Department of Erroneous Homestead Exemption Administrative Hearings
118 North Clark Street, 11th Floor
Chicago, Illinois 60602

General Information About Your Hearing

An administrative hearing is an opportunity to provide testimony and/or evidence before an administrative law judge regarding the alleged erroneous homestead exemption(s) applied to your property. An administrative law judge is an independent third party who will make a determination regarding your liability for the alleged erroneous homestead exemptions based upon the testimony and/or evidence provided. You may represent yourself or have an attorney there to represent you.

Generally, the administrative law judge will not grant continuances, except in the limited circumstances set forth in the Department's Rules of Procedure (found on the Assessor's Office website at www.cookcountyassessor.com). Failure to appear may result in a finding of liability and the filing of a lien on your property as permitted by Section 9-275 of the Property Tax Code.

Please be advised that inability to pay is not a defense to liability for erroneous homestead exemption(s), and if you are found liable, the administrative law judge will not negotiate terms of payment. All payments for erroneous homestead exemption(s) must be made in full. If you have any questions or believe you have been billed in error, please call Jason Pyle at (312) 603-6523.

COMMENTARY

Opinion: Cook County property taxes have reached a breaking point

(Bloomberg)

AR By Andrea Raila April 13, 2026 12:08 PM CDT

We have recently passed another deadline for taxpayers to pay their Cook County property taxes. Yet the growing number of late payments signals a deep problem.

In 2023, approximately 165,000 properties paid late. Moreover, homes in Black and Hispanic communities were 2 and 2.5 times as likely to succumb to foreclosure as homes in white communities. These are not isolated incidents — they reflect a systemic strain on homeowners.

The property tax burden is not shared equally.

Across Chicagoland, property tax increases have been especially steep in these same neighborhoods that can least afford them. Reports have shown seniors and clergy publicly protesting tax bills that rose by 200% or more, mainly in the Black and Brown communities.

At the same time, the Illinois Answers Project revealed that at least $444 million in property improvements were not placed on the tax rolls. This inequity has contributed to significant tax increases not only in Black, Brown, and Hispanic communities, but also in working-class White neighborhoods.

Voter response has been unmistakable. Assessor Pat Hynes, up against a two-term incumbent, saw overwhelming support in many communities most affected by these disparities. He carried all four major South and Southwest townships — Rich, Thornton, Calumet, and Bloom — where Black residents make up between 51% and 74% of the population. Notably, property tax rates in these areas range from 200% to 400% above the countywide average of 9%.

In Chicago, Hynes won 13 of 15 majority-Black wards, often by margins as high as 69% to 71%, including neighborhoods such as Austin, North Lawndale, Garfield Park, Pullman, South Shore, Roseland, Douglas, Grand Boulevard, and Auburn Gresham. He also maintained strong support in majority-white wards like Mount Greenwood, Beverly, Edison Park, Norwood Park, Dunning, and Portage Park, winning between 68% and 76% of the vote. In predominantly Hispanic wards — including Garfield Ridge, Humboldt Park, New City, Clearing, and the East Side — he earned between 54% and 76%.

These results point to a shared demand for property tax reform across racial and geographic lines.

Both Assessor Hynes and I have extensive experience working within Cook County's assessment system. With that expertise, we were able to file underassessment appeals before the Board of Review to correct glaring errors — errors that left millions of dollars in property value off the tax rolls and unfairly shifted the burden onto other taxpayers.

No homeowner — or professional in either the public or private sector — should have to take extraordinary steps to ensure fairness. The current system demands structural reform to restore equity, transparency, and trust. Under Hynes, we have the right assessor for the job: a highly ethical, trained assessment professional with more than two decades of experience working under three former Cook County Assessors. Hynes clearly heard the public's outcry for meaningful property tax reform.

Race and Wealth Inequities in Cook County’s Property Tax Relief Programs: The Senior Citizen Assessment Freeze & Long-time Occupant Homestead Exemptions

Introduction

With property tax exemptions that total over $1.8 billion¹ in Cook County tax breaks, it’s vital and a challenge to keep accurate records of 7 different Cook County homestead exemptions. Tax breaks, through exemptions that reduce the property taxes owed for one’s primary residence, for those who do not qualify for those exemption savings, shift more property tax burden onto others.

This 2021 (updated to 2024 tax year in 2026) Cook County exemption study by the Training, Research, Advocacy & Education Network (TRAEN, Inc.) examines the movement away from legislative property tax relief intentions for income based exemptions, and the misuses of the only two income based exemptions out of the seven Cook County tax exemptions,² the Long-time and Senior Freeze exemptions.

There are solutions to ensure the integrity of the nearly $2 billion tax break industry overseen by the Cook County Assessor and the Illinois Department of Revenue (IDOR). TRAEN recommends county and state legislative changes to ensure that Cook County collects its fair share of public revenues by removing unqualified exemptions, and that homeowners, armed with better knowledge, obtain their entitled exemptions. In the past 4 years, $34 million in senior exemptions have not been collected.

Starting a decade ago, there was an increased focus on how important our property tax exemption programs are to ensure critical tax relief targets those most in need, and on removing tax breaks from those who do not qualify for them.

TRAEN in 2016 initiated exemption law PA 99-164 that required assessors to remove non-qualified exemptions when notified of a residential sale. Sale transfer errors can be made between and within public revenue and assessment agencies responsible for monitoring the accuracy of property tax exemptions. Moreover, TRAEN found that foreclosures, auctions and short sales are rarely examined by assessors to remove erroneous exemptions, accounting for the highest volume of erroneous exemption penalties on minority homeowners and small single family affordable housing managers concentrated in the South and Southwest suburbs.

TRAEN also initiated exemption law PA 99-851 that required homeowners to notify the local assessor when an exemption expires, especially when a homeowner moves out of and rents a former home. Failure to do so underpays the tax base. Banks and other mortgage lenders are also required to submit an Exemption Waiver Notice to assessors of their foreclosed homes but rarely comply.

With cooperation from assessing and revenue departments across many states, along with advanced data technology such as LexisNexis that allows for more in house control, and new IT software programs, the Cook County Assessor in 2014 was able to implement the office's first ever Department of Erroneous Homestead Exemption, an exemption department that holds administrative hearings, and audits and works with skilled data investigators and accessible data banks from the State's Attorney's Office, Recorder of Deeds, County Clerk and IDOR. The Cook County Assessor's website established its first taxpayer tip line for the public to anonymously report suspected erroneous exemptions and potential property errors that keep assessments off the tax rolls.³

However, in 2020, COVID-19 inspired legislation passed an automatic rollover of the income based Senior Freeze exemption for recipients who qualified for it in 2019. The automatic tax break on a Senior Freeze exemption that mandates incomes be no greater than $65,000 will not be audited, and will reduce the 2nd installment tax bills of 2021. Income based exemptions by necessity should undergo random annual audits because incomes fluctuate due to many factors.⁴

The Senior Citizen Assessment Freeze Exemption (SFE) "Senior Freeze" (35 ILCS 200/15-172) and the Long-time Occupant Homestead Exemption (LOHE) (35 ILCS 200/15-177) were created in 1993 and 1994, with the LOHE updated by 2007 PA 95-644, as additional income based property tax exemptions to give much needed property tax relief to both longtime homeowners and seniors on either capped incomes (between $75,000 and $100,000) regardless of age, or on incomes after age 65 (earning $55,000, increased to $65,000 in 2018). Homeowners faced with excessive, unpredictable tax increases, and the threat of not being able to stay in their homes when significant redevelopment occurred in their neighborhoods, would be the beneficiaries of the property tax break exemptions.

Illinois public officials and lawmakers recognized that many homeowners were being forced out of their homes, with tax delinquencies increasing and many neighborhood sales based on land acquisition with the intention to demolish and build new. The General Homestead⁵ (standard) exemption savings, now $678 for Chicago and an average of $1,178 for Cook County, was not providing enough tax relief.

Even adding a standard senior exemption to the general homeowner's exemption when the homeowner turns 65, for an average tax break of $1,220 (up from $678) for a Chicago senior and an average tax break of $2,264 (up from $1,178) for a Cook County senior, does not provide enough property tax relief protection against rapid market value appreciation and escalating tax rates, especially for those on fixed incomes.

A 2018 study by TRAEN disclosed that the Illinois legislature over the past decades has increased the passage of laws that did improve the property tax relief system.⁶

A review of all property tax statutory changes from 1981-1991 revealed that only 12.8% of the bills passed during this decade were property tax relief laws. 16 years later, from 2007-2017, property tax relief bills reflected up to 20.5% of the property tax statutory changes. A 60% increase in tax relief was seen in the expansion of exemptions, abatements, incentives, deferrals and property tax credits.

PROBLEMS

Illinois is the second highest property taxed state in the country.

In 2018, total property taxes billed in Cook County broke previous records, climbing from $14.4 billion to exceed $14.9 billion (a 3.7% increase).

In 2019, as in 2018, total property taxes billed in Cook County broke previous records, climbing from $14.9 billion to exceed $15.6 billion (a 4.1% increase).

In just 2 years Cook County property taxes have increased 8.3%, an increase of $1.2 billion.

However, this seemingly stable source of taxation is under siege. According to a recent National Association of Counties survey, 27% of counties reported reduced property tax collections and 43% expect shortages in 2021, especially if the economy continues to operate at recessionary levels.

The state's excessive reliance on a very regressive tax, when other states lead the way keying in on more modern sources such as on-line purchases and retirement revenue, will determine Illinois' future financial fate; a fate that is precarious at best in light of the global COVID-19 pandemic. The harm done by an antiquated method of taxation, so mammoth as to resist even the best intended reforms, is reflected in excessive tax appeals coupled with inequitable or 5-6 year delayed decisions handled by over-worked or inexperienced staff. Add unpredictable escalation of assessments, ever-increasing tax rates and delinquencies, and homeowners follow businesses leaving Cook County for less burdensome real estate taxes.

Over time the Senior Citizen Assessment Freeze Exemption (SFE) & Long-time Occupant Homestead Exemption (LOHE) have been open to misuse. This is primarily due to a combination of factors: intrinsic flaws in the exemption formulas, improper or inadequate administrative oversight, non-uniform statutory exemption qualifications, and the lack of mandated annual auditing. The Senior Freeze Exemption law states that audits must be made no later than December 31, 2022, and no later than December 31, 2024.

Policymakers identified those making less than $65,000 and age 65 and older, as well as homeowners regardless of age making less than $75,000 and residing for more than a decade in homes in neighborhoods threatened by gentrification due to rapid redevelopment, as deserving of income based property tax exemption relief. But over the years, the two property tax relief income based exemptions have shifted away from property tax relief for the most vulnerable homeowners.

There are too many examples of Cook County's unfair income based property tax exemptions awarded to those who need them the least, because there are no residential market value or Equalized Assessed Value (EAV) caps.⁷ Nor are there set maximum levels of tax breaks for those who successfully apply for these income restricted property tax exemptions.

Most importantly, we need Cook County policymakers and legislators who understand that income based property tax exemptions do not always apply to minority homeowners and small minority residential investors in areas blighted by high tax rates and foreclosures.

The two income based property tax exemptions added to existing exemptions-- the standard homeowner and senior exemptions -- are giving millions away in property tax breaks to some of the most expensive, prestigious properties, including significant tax breaks to primary residences that include commercial units that produce additional income for the homeowner.

SOLUTIONS

With so many different Cook County exemptions available, property owners, especially new owners and the elderly, are not knowledgeable about them and their questions can take up a significant amount of the Assessor's staff's time. Additionally, all of these exemptions require time to monitor and administer them.

Especially in times of public revenue instability and crisis, there is too much public revenue at stake for Cook County not to make in-house annual homestead exemption audits. Current property tax statutes only mandate that the Cook County Assessor's Office audit every 2-3 years or do not mandate audits for some exemptions at all.

It is very important not to take qualified seniors or homeowners off of the tax rolls in an audit. $34 million in senior exemptions have not been collected by qualified seniors during the last 4 years. The due process of sending a notice to the taxpayer to validate removal is essential in any audit.

Unqualified tax exemptions occur when both new homeowners and older owners are simply ignorant of an erroneous exemption. A common source of intentional or unintentional unqualified exemptions is when:

- Homeowners move and rent out their home, or allow non-tenants to reside in their home (addressed by TRAEN's passage of PA 99-851).
- The homeowner is divorced or deceased.
- Banks repossess homes that bypass normal sale recordings or even standard sales (addressed by TRAEN's passage of PA 99-164).
- Homeowners claim multiple exemptions inside Cook County, and within and outside the State of Illinois.
- Individual or multiple property owners under the age of 65 claim senior exemptions that require a minimum age of 65 for eligibility.
- Homeowners purchase a single family home with two tax bills, or a condo is co-joined with another unit, and the 2 tax bills are not properly prorated. Double tax bills require vigilant oversight to properly prorate exemption values fairly by the Assessor.³

Put simply, standardized and non-standardized transfers of homes are far too frequent to not allow for annual exemption audits.

TRAEN recommends these solutions, based on our research and experience guiding homeowners and small residential managers through the most complex property tax exemption system in the country.

We identify 10 areas that our legislators and policymakers should address to ensure a fairer property tax relief system:

- Modernize and strengthen the Assessor's in-house monitoring, and technical auditing tools and methods that oversee all exemptions, by authorizing the training and support of the 30 Cook County Township Assessors to work both inside and outside their townships to help administer and audit exemptions in order to find lost revenue by identifying non-qualified exemptions and prevent ineligible exemptions from being granted.
- Appoint all 30 Cook County Assessors to serve on a rotating basis on a 15-member Commission on Cook County Tax Exemptions. The Commission would include 3 non-elected, non-governmental commissioners to ensure that the $1.8 billion exemption system is fair and effective, and to recommend policy changes when needed.
- Make exemption audits an annual process mandated by Cook County Ordinance and the State Legislature. Gain public and legislative support for increasing the Cook County Assessor's human and technological resources for annual exemption audits.
- Auditor names should be disclosed and they should be required to document their research of buyers in all home transactions, including verifying income, and if applicants are in areas threatened by gentrification factors.
- Increase the Cook County Assessor's staffing, supervision and training for approving income based exemptions for LOHE and SFE exemption applicants.
- Place a graduated maximum level of property tax break relief for income based exemptions.⁸

Cap the market value at $500,000 for homes to receive the full value of income based exemptions, with a gradually decreasing benefit starting at $500,000 (145,800 EAV / state multiplier / 10%) up to a maximum of $857,339 Market Value (current legal maximum of 250,000 EAV / state multiplier / 10%).

A capped market value at $500,000 is 112% higher than the current average Cook County home's market value at $236,000.⁸

For comparison purposes, the 70-100% Disabled Veteran Exemption's (non-income based) market value is capped at $857,339, (250,000 EAV) which is 263% above the median Cook County home's price. Moreover, of the 50 states with veteran exemption laws, only Illinois gives veterans with a disability of 70% up to 100% a 100% property tax exemption. 19 states (38%) give veterans property tax free homes only for 100% disability and they all place market value caps on their veteran disabled exemptions, with the second highest market value cap at $300,000. Three states add annual income caps.⁹

- Insert in 1st and 2nd installment property tax bills information about erroneous exemptions, the Assessor's Notice to Waive Homeowner's Exemption form, on-line links and a Hot Line for retrieving $34 million of unclaimed Senior Exemptions, and descriptions of all 7 Cook County Exemptions.
- A new Cook County ordinance delayed the payment of 2nd installment tax bills due August 3, 2020 until October 1, 2020. This delay in tax payments could be used to re-issue unpaid 2nd installment tax bills after the removal of unqualified exemptions.
- Audit and overhaul the least understood Cook County exemption, the Longtime Occupancy Exemption, which gives $4.8 million in tax breaks to only 2% (2,763) Cook County homes.
- Update the Cook County Longtime Occupant and Senior Freeze income based exemption applications adding requirements to identify: whether or not the residence contains commercial units, the number of units, the entire commercial square footage outside the primary residence, if there are multiple owners, and the percentage of ownership(s) residing on the property.¹⁶

TRAEN AUDIT METHODOLOGY

For this study, TRAEN accessed the Cook County Assessor's subscription exemption and assessment databases and ran audits that examined irregularities by classifications, Permanent Index Number (PIN) sequencing, market value, ages, sales, exemption types and property tax savings EAV values.

Like the Assessor, TRAEN researchers cross checked anomalies using sources such as the Multiple Listing Service (MLS), Zillow, Costar, Cook County Recorder of Deeds, Cook County Board of Review, Cook County Treasurer, city and village building records departments, Voter Registration agencies, Illinois Secretary of State and the Illinois Department of Revenue (IDOR), along with similar sources in other states.

The research was conducted by 3 researchers and was completed in 2 days. This time frame does not include field site inspections or data analysis. This type of "initial internal review" process should be an annual exemption audit implemented by the Cook County Assessor's Exemption Department simply as a best practice for the oversight of a $1.8+ billion tax break exemption system, rather than adhering to the 2-year State audit deadline mandates.

DISCUSSION

Property tax exemptions, including the Long-time Occupant Homestead Exemption (LOHE) & Senior Citizen Assessment Freeze Exemption (SFE), have been a research focus of TRAEN, which has successfully initiated several exemption, omitted assessment, and special service area legislative tax reforms.¹⁰

In 2019, TRAEN President Andrea Raila testified¹¹ at 4 public hearings before the Governor's Task Force on Property Tax Relief. The Task Force's mission was to review the Illinois property tax system and make property tax reform recommendations. The Task Force members were exclusively Illinois legislators whose specific responsibilities included:¹²

- Identifying the causes of increasingly burdensome property taxes across Illinois
- Reviewing successful public policy strategies that create short-term and long-term property tax relief for homeowners
- Making recommendations about the steps that Illinois government needs to take to provide property tax relief.

Raila gave testimony before the Task Force subcommittee on topics of social and economic disparities, assessments corrected by using the Assessor's Certificate of Corrections process, and Illinois property tax statute qualifications for the Veteran's Disability, Disabled Persons, Longtime and Senior Freeze exemptions.

Raila's recommendations to the Illinois Task Force legislators included amending current property tax statutes for approving income and market value caps, adopting tax break maximums, and adding a more robust investigative review for income and property classification qualifications.

For discussion purposes, capping market value or EAV eligibility for income based exemptions could save Cook County over $18 million in property tax breaks. This would remove the top 1%-2% of the highest market values or EAVs and largest tax breaks for 2,265 applicants, out of 163,237 approved applicants in 2018, with $5 million to $5.3 million dollar homes, and/or adding graduated tax relief for those homes valued at $500,000 or more.

Homeowners receiving the Senior Freeze who had the highest market values and greatest tax breaks average $10,365 annual tax savings, while all 163,237 homeowners average $2,048 in tax savings.

With the Senior Freeze and the Long-time exemptions unmodified and applied to multi-million-dollar luxury homes and primary residences with attached restaurants, offices, storefronts or additional rental apartments, and whose tax exemptions are applied to the property's non-residential units, in 2018 Cook County again shifted millions of the property tax burden onto other taxpayers and denied public revenue to taxing districts.

In 2018 Cook County collected $14.9 billion in property tax revenues. 7 Cook County exemptions reduced property tax revenues by more than $1.8 billion (12%). In 2018 the following exemptions reduced property tax liabilities for qualifying taxpayers as follows:

Only Cook County		Individual Avg. Savings	Top 1-2% Avg. Savings
Standard Homeowner's Exemption	$1.1 billion	$1,179
Standard Senior Exemption	$266.7 million	$ 943
Senior Assessment Freeze (income cap)	$330 million	$ 2,050	$10,365
Veteran 70-100% Disabled Exempt from Taxes	$41 million*	$ 7,164 *	$16,395 *
Longtime Occupancy Exemption (income cap)	$4.8 million	$ 1,733	$ 7,195
30% - 69% Disabled Veteran Exemption	$762,863	$ 439
Disabled Persons	$4.2 million	$ 225

Raila pointed out that the Veteran's 70-100% Disability Exemption (PA 99-0375 Effective 2015 35 ILCS 200/15-169) exempting 100% of property taxes was unlike any other existing property tax exemption in the state and even country. Most importantly, the qualifying property tax exemption applicant must have a 2018 market value no greater than $858,841,¹³ (less than 250,000 EAV) and only the primary residence qualifies any portion of the residence. The Veteran's 70-100% Disability Exemption statute's language is very clear; it disqualifies any commercial portion rented for more than 6 months and/or used for commercial purposes.

The Senior Assessment Freeze and Long-time exemptions do not cap the home's market value or EAV, and do not have a maximum tax break level, nor do they have clear statutory language that disqualifies the exemptions from being applied to commercial portions of the primary home. The Senior Freeze and Long-time property tax exemption statutory language is not as clearly defined as statutes for the 70-100% Disabled Veteran Exemption.

¹⁴ Long-Time Exemption P.A. 97-1150 "A homestead includes the dwelling place, appurtenant structures, and so much of the surrounding land constituting the parcel on which the dwelling place is situated as is used for residential purposes. If the assessor has established a specific legal description for a portion of property constituting the homestead, then the homestead is limited to the property within that description".

The Cook County Assessor has clear descriptions of residential dwellings with mixed-use purposes that contain store(s) and apartments Classed 2-12, and 2 to 6 unit apartments for commercial purposes Classed 2-11, and that identify residential properties when they have commercial units.¹⁵ Better guidance would amend the statute with specific language that no exemption should be applied to attached non-residential commercial units.

Long-Time Exemptions P.A. 97-1150 "The Department shall establish, by rule, a method for verifying the accuracy of affidavits filed by applicants under this Section, and the Chief County Assessment Officer may conduct audits of any taxpayer claiming an exemption under this Section to verify that the taxpayer is eligible to receive the exemption."

*70%-100% disabled veteran owned property exempt from taxation in Cook County represents about 27% of all Illinois property exempt due to disability breaks, totaling almost $108 million since the law was enacted in 2015. Average disabled veteran's Cook County home value removed off the tax rolls is $242,918 (70,771 EAV /

2.9109 equalizer / 10% assessment level). Using an average Cook County tax rate of .1179 and allowing for the standard homeowner exemption yields average veteran's tax savings = $7,164. The average home value within the 6 collar counties is $224,260 (74,746 EAV / 1.0 equalizer / 33.33% assessment level); in the remaining 95 counties the average disabled veteran's home value is $135,259 (45,109 EAV / 1.0006 equalizer / 33.33% assessment level). In the last 4 years (2015-2018) disabled veterans 100% tax exemption applications increased 70%.

Senior Assessment Freeze P.A. 100-401 "In counties with 3,000,000 or more inhabitants, the chief county assessment official shall conduct audits of all exemptions granted under this Section no later than December 31, 2022 and no later than December 31, 2024. The audit shall be designed to ascertain whether any senior homestead exemptions have been granted erroneously.

If it is determined that a senior homestead exemption has been erroneously applied to a property, the chief county assessment officer shall make use of the appropriate provisions of Section 9-275 in relation to the property that received the erroneous homestead exemption".

Senior Assessment Freeze P.A. 100-401 "(h) The assessor or chief county assessment officer may determine the eligibility of residential property to receive the homestead exemption provided by this Section by application, visual inspection, questionnaire or other reasonable methods. The determination shall be made in accordance with guidelines established by the Department".

Senior Assessment Freeze 35 ILCS 200/15-172

"Residence" means the principal dwelling place and appurtenant structures used for residential purposes in this State occupied on January 1 of the taxable year by a household and so much of the surrounding land, constituting the parcel upon which the dwelling place is situated, as is used for residential purposes. If the Chief County Assessment Officer has established a specific legal description for a portion of property constituting the residence, then that portion of property shall be deemed the residence for the purposes of this Section.

There is a very clear statutory directive applied to the Veteran Disability Exemption that the exemption should exclude commercial portions of a primary residence. This should be added to all residential exemptions. In New Jersey, the Senior Freeze Application requires seniors to indicate the share of the property used as the owner's principal residence, whether or not the property consists of multi-units, and the share of the property owned by the senior.¹⁶

The Cook County Assessor's Senior Freeze application asks: On January 1 was any portion of the property used for commercial purposes or rented to another person or entity for at least 6 months? The 70% Disability veteran's exemption includes no more than 250,000 EAV for the primary residence and excludes the EAV of property used for commercial purposes.

70% Disability Veteran Exemption P.A. 99-143 (f) For the purposes of this Section: "Qualified residence" means real property, but less of that property that is used for commercial purposes, with an equalized assessed value of less than $250,000 that is the primary residence of a veteran with a disability. Property rented for more than 6 months is presumed to be used for commercial purposes”.

Senior Assessment Freeze Exemption (SFE)

No significant property tax reform legislation was passed in this last legislative session except for the 2020 signing of SB 685 (PA 101-635) by Governor Pritzker.

The 2020 Public Act contains provisions concerning three homestead exemptions, including the senior citizen assessment freeze homestead exemption. These exemptions may be granted without application for the 2020 taxable year if the property qualified for the exemption in the 2019 taxable year, but subject to certain limitations related to the COVID-19 pandemic.

However, in the past the senior freeze exemption had to be applied for each year as it is based on an income limit of $65,000 and an age minimum of 65. Senior incomes may change by choice or circumstance. Income qualifying exemptions, including the Longtime Exemption, should always require the assessor’s annual oversight and review of the applicant’s income and inspection of the property.

The Senior Assessment Freeze “freezes” an eligible homeowner’s EAV, which is not market value of the property but a percentage of that market value as determined by the property’s county in which it is located. The EAV is “frozen” at the level of the year prior to a homeowner’s first application. In other words, it exempts all EAV increases over the base amount.

Because there is no Senior Freeze (or Long-time) exemption savings maximum (the highest annual tax break identified was $67,500) or property value maximum (the highest market value was $5.3 million), it is a very valuable exemption for qualifying homeowners, but this also opens this income based exemption to misuse. Over 19 years the household income eligibility limit was increased 86% from $35,000 in 1999 to $65,000 in 2018 for the Senior Freeze for an average increase of 4% per year.

The Senior Assessment Freeze exemption based on income now grants $330.1 million in tax savings, which is 24% higher than the standard Senior Exemption not based on income that grants $266.7 million in tax savings.

Between 2008 and 2018 applicants for the senior freeze have increased 42%.

With an income threshold of $65,000, clearly the intent of the tax statute for greatly needed property tax relief for seniors seeking an assessment freeze exemption was not to qualify a senior who resides in a 6,000 SF home valued in 2018 at $5.3 million, with an original tax bill of $128,234 that receives a $23,563 property tax break.¹⁷

How can a senior afford to pay an adjusted tax bill of $103,187 on an annual income of $65,000?

IDOR reported that the total EAV for all senior assessment freeze exemptions in Cook County in 2018 was $2.7 billion. Applying an average tax rate for the county of 11.79% yields $330,091,046 in property tax savings.*

In 2018 there were 160,958 senior assessment freeze exemptions identified by their tax PINs in the Cook County Assessor's exemption database. In 2018, IDOR identified 160,958 SFE applicants in Cook County.^{18 & 23}

In 2018, the Cook County Assessor's Office received approximately 161,100 senior freeze applications, and qualified and processed tax savings for 160,958 senior freeze homeowners. About 142 applications were not processed, less than 1%.

TRAEN's study examined the 2018 senior freeze taxpayers who in 2018 received the greatest property tax exemption savings, and identified 1,526 PINs of homes with the highest market values ranging from $500,000 to $5.3 million. These 1,526 homes represent essentially the top 1% of all 160,958 senior freeze recipients.¹⁹

Senior Freeze Exemption Key findings include:

- This top 1% of homeowners, with 1,526 homes valued between $500,000 and $5.3 million, paid $6,608,461 in 2018 taxes. Without the senior assessment freeze, their taxes would have been $22,424,784.
- This top 1% of homeowners who attested to earning $65,000 or less and whose homes are valued between $500,000 and $5.3 million, realized $15,816,323 in property tax breaks from the senior assessment freeze.
- This top 1% of homeowners with 1,526 homes valued between $500,000 and $5.3 million had their senior freeze tax bills reduced by an overall 71%, with an average tax break per tax bill of $10,365.
- All 160,958 Cook County senior freeze tax bills were reduced overall by 23%, with an average tax break per tax bill of about $2,051.
- The senior freeze exemption gives the top 100 highest market value homes, whose owners attested to earning only $65,000 or less in 2018, valued between $836,000 and $5.3 million and an average tax bill of $26,630, an average tax break of $7,350, for a final average adjusted tax bill of $19,280.
- The senior freeze exemption gives 160,958 senior homeowners, who attested to earning $65,000 or less in 2018, with homes valued between $50,000 and $499,999, and an average tax bill of $8,950, an average tax break of $2,051, for a final average adjusted tax bill of $6,899.
- The senior freeze exemption gives $482,441 in tax breaks to the top 18 taxpayers, ranked by highest market value. Their initial tax bills totaled $876,486 and their adjusted tax bills were reduced to $394,045, which equals an aggregate 55% reduction in their tax bills, for an average tax savings of $26,800 for each of the 18 taxpayers.²⁰

TRAEN researchers reviewed the revenue tax savings and number of applicants for three triennial years of applications for the Senior Freeze Exemption in New Trier Township. New Trier Township includes some of the wealthiest homeowners in the country in the villages of Glencoe, Kenilworth and Winnetka.

New Trier Township 3 Triennials Senior Freeze Key Findings

The New Trier Township Senior Assessment Freeze Exemptions for all applicants with an average home valued at $440,600 in 2018 = $2,843 average savings.²¹

The New Trier Township Senior Assessment Freeze Exemptions for 5 multi-million dollar homes whose owners claim they earned only $65,000 in 2018 = $19,062 average Sr Freeze savings. Their Sr Freeze tax breaks range from $7,173 to $25,074.

In contrast, the median Cook County home value of $236,000 x 10% assessment level x 2.9109 equalizer (= 68,697 EAV) x .1179 average tax rate = $8,099 taxes. 18,000 EAV for both the standard homeowner and senior exemptions x .1179 average tax rate = $2,122. Average taxes of $8,099 less average standard homeowner and senior exemptions of $2,122 = $5,977. Applying the average senior freeze of $2,050 = $3,927 tax bill for a senior homeowner making $65,000 or less.

Senior Citizen Assessment Freeze Exemption (SFE) Examples

TRAEN researchers reviewed the top 100 SFE²² taxpayers who attest to have earned $65,000 or less in 2018 and had homes with market values between $836,150 and $5.3 million. They received substantial senior freeze tax savings, which reflected a total property tax revenue loss of $1,892,633.

Key findings for these top 100 senior assessment freeze homes:

- The highest senior freeze tax break was $35,714 on a $4.6 million, 7,600 SF Chicago home on Dearborn Parkway in the Gold Coast whose owner claimed a $65,000 annual income. The application was approved by the Assessor and a tax break of $35,714 was issued for the senior freeze exemption. Annual property taxes before the senior freeze were $90,971 and the tax bill was reduced to $55,257.
- The highest market value was a $5.3 million Winnetka home claiming a $65,000 annual income. The application was approved by the Assessor and a tax break of $23,563 was issued for the senior freeze exemption. Annual property taxes before the senior freeze were $128,234 and the tax bill was reduced to $103,187.
- The highest reduction of a tax bill was 98% for a Chicago home valued at $960,750. The application was approved by the Assessor and a tax break of $17,342 was issued for the senior freeze exemption. Annual property taxes before the senior freeze were $18,978 but the owner also receives a standard Homeowner's and standard Senior exemption (3 exemptions total), and the tax bill was reduced to $415.
- Water Tower Place on Michigan Avenue at E. Pearson is one of the most prestigious addresses in Chicago. Oprah Winfrey purchased two units totaling 6,000 SF as a Chicago resident. The application for a 3,000 SF unit, listed for sale at $3.4 million, was approved by the Assessor and a tax break of $28,976 was issued for the senior freeze exemption. Annual property taxes before the senior freeze were $31,440 and the tax bill was reduced to $2,464. Rents for a same sized luxury condo in the building are $12,500 per month.
- A $2.2 million Rush Street, mixed use 5,400 SF building containing 1 commercial unit and 2 apartments. The application was approved by the Assessor and a tax break of $26,574 for the senior freeze was issued for the entire building. Annual property taxes before exemptions were $42,506. The taxpayer receives, in addition to the senior freeze, the standard Homeowner and Senior exemptions. The tax bill was reduced by 63% to $15,933. Moreover, this same taxpayer claims a 2nd Homeowner exemption on a nearby prestigious Gold Coast condo.

Long-time Occupant Exemption (LOHE)

Cook County Commissioners and legislators recognized that many homeowners were being forced out of the homes where they had lived for more than 10 to 20 years* because they could not afford unpredictable, escalating property taxes, and tax delinquencies were increasing. Rapidly increasing sales in their neighborhoods were based on land value with the intention to demolish and build new homes.

The Long-time Occupant Exemption (LOHE) started in 1993, and by 1995 the Cook County Commissioners' Long-Time or "HELP" exemption program initially recommended a market value cap of $300,000 to qualify for the Long-Time Exemption. At the time the average market value, as estimated by the Cook County Assessor, of a Chicago home was $100,000 and in Cook County the average home was $250,000. In 1998, a Cook County Ordinance specifically addressed the concerns of Cook County's most vulnerable homeowners who faced "excessive and unpredictable tax increases" when significant redevelopment occurred in their neighborhoods.

* According to the National Realtors Association, in 2018 a Cook County homeowner resides in their home an average of 13 years

The Long-time Occupant Exemption was passed in 2007 by PA 95-644. The LOHE served as an alternative to the so-called 7 percent homestead "exemption" or Alternative General Homestead Exemption (AGHE), which limited the annual increase in a home's equalized assessed value to 7 percent. The AGHE benefitted more than 1 million properties because the "exemption" did not require homeowners to complete and submit any application form; instead, it was an internal calculation coded into more than 90% of all residential assessments by the Cook County Assessor to limit equalized assessment growth. In 2008 when the housing market crashed, AGHE became ineffective.

To qualify for the LOHE homeowners had to live within their homes for at least 10 years. The Long-time Exemption is income based. For homeowners with household incomes of $75,000 or less, the LOHE limited the annual increase in their home's equalized assessed value to 7%. For those with household incomes between $75,001 and $100,000, the LOHE limited the annual increase in their home's equalized assessed value to 10%.

LOHE Unique Problems

The LOHE had a two-year peak in 2009 and 2010 when applicants numbering 105,227 and 100,737, respectively, were approved. In the years 2008, and 2011 to 2018 the range of approved applicants dropped from 36,624 to 2,763.²³

83% of all LOHE approvals over the 11 years from 2008-2018 were applied to some of the wealthiest properties in Chicago and the North and Northwest suburbs, with only 17% approved in the minority South and Southwest suburbs.

Discretion as to how and who can apply for the LOHE remains exclusively with the Cook County Assessor who is mandated to mail out applications to "affected persons" (homeowners) in affected areas (assuming gentrifying neighborhoods) where tax bills are soaring and whose qualifications would be income based.

Since 2008 there have been many administrative problems with the LOHE due to the following reasons:

- The LOHE as devised is inherently biased against the South and Southwest suburbs with the highest minority homeowners, highest tax delinquencies, foreclosures, and excessive tax rates that vaporize home equity. Excessively high tax rates are a greater threat to stable minority homeownership than gentrification that the tax justice movement and policymakers have long overlooked.
- The LOHE, as currently designed, largely benefits properties with high assessments and high assessment increases within Chicago and the North and Northwest suburbs with the lowest tax rates. The excessively high taxes in South and Southwest suburban minority areas are due to high tax rates, even with low assessments and market values, and were not factored in as a part of the LOHE tax break formula.

- Homeowners frequently failed to respond to the new one-time-only LOHE application sent to them by the Cook County Assessor when they reached the 10th year of their residency.
- For the South and Southwest suburbs with large foreclosure clusters, very few LOHE applications were mailed to these homeowners who suffered from greater financial challenges, including excessively high property taxes, which diminished the ability of many minority homeowners to become “longtime” homeowners.
- Homeowners may have felt distrustful being asked for the first time to disclose their income to the Cook County Assessor—whether they earned just under $75,000 or $100,000. Even if their incomes were within that range, the formula—if understood---gave no assurance of a property tax break or of how much that tax break would be.
- For the first 7 or more years, the LOHE application was never available on the Assessor’s website, unlike all other exemption applications.
- In 2009, information about the LOHE did ultimately appear on the Cook County Assessor’s web page stating: “To help you better understand the benefits of the new Expanded Homeowner Exemption (LOHE), we are providing you with the information used to calculate your exemption.”; however, the link rarely functioned and was removed.
- TRAEN found that taxpayers who either printed the LOHE application from the Assessor’s website when it was finally made available or obtained the LOHE application at tax information meetings and submitted the application on their own, without waiting for the Assessor to mail the application to them, successfully received the LOHE tax savings.²⁴

It is difficult to identify the intent of the tax breaks provided by the Longtime Exemption due to its seemingly capricious application and vague approval processes. In 2009 and 2010 the LOHE provided significant tax relief to many; however, the exemption's "sunset" provision has resulted in a drop in approvals from a peak of 105,227 in 2009 to 2,728* in 2018.

The administration of the LOHE has been shrouded in mystery resulting in public mistrust, misunderstanding and frequent claims that affected homeowners never received the Longtime Exemption application mandated to be sent by the Cook County Assessor.

LOHE the Least Transparent and Fair

The LOHE will soon sunset and policymakers may want to consider a new Cook County property tax exemption that provides tax relief to the South and Southwest suburbs that received only 17% of the LOHE tax relief over the past 11 years.

By looking at the overall local fiscal issues that are unique to this region it is very clear that minority homeowners need tax relief. The key to any effective property tax exemption program that assists the neediest Cook County homeowners is transparency: clear public knowledge of the exemptions, clear understanding of tax relief qualifications, levels of income, market value (EAV), age, disability, tax rate, excessive vacancies and foreclosure factors, or length of residency, and the ease or difficulty of applying for them.

There must be fairness and consistency in the application process of all tax exemptions. Multiple exemptions which grant tax breaks of almost $2 billion in an assessment base as large as Cook County, will always gravitate to erode fair policy tax relief intentions unless closely monitored and resourced with high technology and staffing experts. The number of exemptions with special treatments is not only costly to administer but it can often lead to negligible tax breaks favoring one group of homeowners over another and even encourage fraudulent tax avoidance.

Over the LOHE's lifetime time of 12 years it's complex formula was hidden from outside examination. When coupled with homeowners who do not understand how, when and where the poorly designed tax exemption will be applied, even for the "less than 2% of Cook County homeowners" cited on the Assessor's website, such tax exemption breaks are open to increased public criticism. The lack of transparency on any property tax exemption erodes the public's trust.

As in this 2020 study, a TRAEN 2014 Long-time Occupant Exemption Study identified that some of the wealthiest area homeowners, with multi-million dollar homes had been receiving as much as $67,500 a year in LOHE tax breaks due to the absence of caps on either market values or maximum tax level relief.

The 2014 study supports the findings of TRAEN's 2020 study that the LOHE is applied sporadically and unpredictably, and does not address any original legislative concerns about rising property taxes due to unpredictable assessment increases that are often the result of excessively high tax rates and gentrification.

The LOHE is available only to homeowners who live in "affected" areas. This ambiguous language, in place since its creation in 2008, circumvents the intent of the Longtime Exemption's historical statutory language, which meant to give tax relief to property owners in rapidly gentrifying neighborhoods, facing rising housing demolitions, and excessive assessment growth (but not excessive tax rates). The LOHE is another income based tax exemption that should have both EAV (market value) caps and a maximum on property tax dollar breaks.

Widespread public confusion as to when, for whom, how and why the LOHE applications were approved renders the LOHE the least transparent and most distrusted Cook County tax exemption. Over the past 12 years it has favored wealthier, predominantly white housing stock over poorer minority housing stock and neighborhoods.

Long-Time Exemption Key findings:

- Of those 2,728 exemptions, 756 (28%) of the Long-Time homeowners had homes with market values between $500,000 and $3.1 million, and received substantial property tax savings that totaled $2,276,156.²⁴
- 1,972 (72%) of the Long-Time homeowners had homes with market values between $51,000 and $499,999, and received property tax savings that totaled $2,565,104.
- 59 homeowners with luxury homes valued between $1 million and $3.1 million dollars received an average $7,195 Long-Time Homeowner's exemption savings off their average tax bills of $26,883, which reduced tax bills on average to $19,688.
- 29 homeowners with luxury homes valued between $900,000 and $999,999 received an average $4,445 Long-Time Homeowner's exemption savings off their average tax bills of $18,248, which reduced tax bills on average to $13,803.
- 174 applicants who qualified for the Longtime Exemption resided in newly built homes that were only 10 to 16 years old. 25 applicants resided in relatively new homes only 17 to 19 years old. Several of these applicants were not in gentrifying neighborhoods or had purchased an older home and built a new home at a cost of more than $1 million.

The Long-Time Occupant Homestead Exemption LOHE Examples

According to State law and Cook County Ordinance, the Longtime Homeowner Exemption was created to address "longtime homeowners...experiencing substantial and unpredictable property tax increases due to upper-scale development or redevelopment, known as gentrification...in recognition of the severe economic circumstances many of these longtime homeowners have faced, the Illinois Legislature passed PA 88-451, the Longtime Owner-Occupant Property Tax Relief"

One of several examples of how the Longtime Homeowner Exemption strays from its public policy mission is seen in this example of a homeowner who purchased homes on adjoining lots with two PINs, demolished them, and in 2011 built a $2.7 million home on Honore Street in the neighborhood of Bucktown, Chicago.²⁵

- The Honore St. home is 5,925 SF and was under construction for several years after the owner purchased it in 2008. With 10 years of ownership the homeowner submitted a 2018 Longtime Exemption. The application for an exemption was approved by the Assessor in the spring of 2019, and a tax break of $46,067 reduced the taxes from $52,870, for a total adjusted tax of $6,803 spread over the 2 tax bills.
- The LOHE Application was processed and approved by the Cook County Assessor's Office around March 2019 and 2 refunds for the two tax bills totaling $16,532 were issued to the homeowner in August 2019.
- The homeowner is the sole manager of Honore LLC and has a primary home in Indiana with a standard homestead exemption. Illinois and Indiana laws state that a homeowner may receive a homeowner's exemption only on one (primary) residence.
- The homeowner successfully sought property tax relief through the tax appeal process, filing vacancy appeals for 6 consecutive years (2011, 2012, 2013, 2014, 2015 and 2016). Clearly, the homeowner did not reside in the house for the minimum 10 years required to qualify for the Long-time Exemption.

Primary Residences Containing Commercial Properties

TRAEN researchers uncovered multiple examples of both the Longtime and Senior Freeze exemptions being applied to 100% of a primary residence that included commercial rental units. These properties, known as mixed use properties, are classified 2-11 and 2-12.²⁵

- A $1.9 million Lakeview Township, Chicago mixed use 5,310 SF property with a restaurant on the first floor that represents 63% of the building. The application for an exemption was approved by the Assessor and a tax break of $30,479 was issued. Annual property taxes before the senior freeze were $37,358 and the tax bill was reduced to $6,879.
- A $970,000 Chicago 2 flat, 4,500 SF property. The application for an exemption was approved by the Assessor and a tax break of $10,441 was issued. Annual property taxes before the Longtime exemption were $19,096, but the owner also received a standard Homeowner's and standard Senior exemption (3 exemptions total), and the tax bill was reduced to $7,433. The tax break of $5,221 should only apply to 1 unit.
- A $1.7 million Chicago 6 unit, 8,900 SF apartment building where the owner occupies 1 apartment. The application was approved by the Assessor and a tax break of $30,055 was issued. Annual property taxes before the Senior Freeze were $33,966 but the owner also received a standard Homeowner's and standard Senior exemption (3 exemptions total), and the tax bill was reduced to $2,689. The Senior Freeze tax break of $5,009 should only apply to 1 unit.
- In contrast, an $840,000 Chicago 6 unit, 6,340 SF apartment building where the owner occupies 1 apartment. The application was approved by the Assessor and the correct tax break of $3,008 for just the owner's unit was issued. Annual property taxes before exemptions were $16,683, but the owner also received a standard Homeowner's, standard Senior and a Disabled Person's exemption (4 exemptions total), and the tax bill was reduced to $12,317.

- A $1.7 million Seminary Ave., Lincoln Park, 5 unit, 4,658 SF apartment building where the owner occupies 1 apartment. The application was approved by the Assessor and a tax break of $23,815 was issued. Annual property taxes before the Senior Freeze were $35,176 but the owner also received a standard Homeowner's and standard Senior exemption (3 exemptions total), and the tax bill was reduced to $10,140. The Senior Freeze should only apply to one unit at $4,763.
- A $4.6 million Dearborn Parkway, Gold Coast, 7,600 SF single family home claiming a $65,000 annual income. The application was approved by the Assessor and the highest senior freeze tax break of $35,714 was issued. Annual property taxes before the senior freeze were $90,971 and the tax bill was reduced to $55,257.

Summary

Cook County anticipates a $220 million revenue shortfall in the 2020 fiscal year. While Chicago's budget shortfall will total nearly $800 million this year, a shortfall of $1.2 billion is forecast for 2021.

Taxing districts strongly support annual exemption audits due to their ever increasing revenue needs, especially in our budget crisis times. The $34 million backlog in unpaid senior exemptions, once rightfully reclaimed, will include millions more in additional interest payments. However, the revenue gains from future recurring benefits due to removing millions in unqualified exemptions also could reach into millions of dollars.

This examination exposes the potential for exploitation of income based exemptions, identifies inaccuracies and the movement away from legislative intent, and the absence of consistent procedures for applying, monitoring and auditing. When we see one homeowner being given a $67,500 annual property tax break and another homeowner being given $149,944 in property tax breaks over 7 years on a $5.3 million lakefront home the public trust in our tax system is corroded. Tax exemptions should always be policy linked and be fair in every way possible.

In Cook County there is a 35% black homeownership gap. White homeownership is 74% and black homeownership is 39%. Policymakers need to examine how existing or new property tax exemptions can be designed to help our most vulnerable property owners become more financially stable so they can build their equity base through longer and increased homeownership.

The public trust in Cook County property tax exemptions is strengthened when tax breaks are appropriately applied and, when in error, are timely removed off of tax bills through the Assessor's directive. This critical mission, supported by internal audits and state legislative reforms, ensures public confidence in the property tax system and the accuracy of tax breaks for both the homeowner and Cook County’s property tax revenue base.

The Council on State Taxation (COST) and the International Property Tax Institute (IPTI), in their 2019 study on best tax practices, developed a Scorecard analysis to evaluate property tax administrative systems. Its Jurisdictional Scoring Table rated Illinois’ Overall Grade a D+ in 3 areas: Transparency (D), Consistency (C) and Procedural Fairness (D).

The International Association of Assessing Officers (IAAO) 2019 Executive Summary stated that the current Cook County tax assessment administration, now well into its 2nd year, ...“has been proactive in seeking the best practice [but] it faces serious challenges.” The IAAO continued ... “the task ahead is monumental, and the financial and resource commitment for modernization is substantial. Nevertheless, the gains for Cook County deserve the investment in resources—both human and capital.”

TRAEN supports these IAAO assessments and the mission for a fairer property tax system.

⁵ The General Homestead (Homeowner) exemption was enacted in 1978 (Public Act 80-1471). Cook County taxpayers saved approximately $52 million in 1978, and 40 years later in 2018, they saved about $1.8 billion. But in 2009 Cook County taxpayers saved about $1.2 billion on the standard homeowner’s exemption largely because of a unique legislative property tax exemption created called the Alternative General Homestead Exemption. In 2004, the General Assembly provided counties an alternative to the Homeowner exemption by enacting the Alternative General Homestead (Seven Percent Expanded Homeowner) exemption (Public Act 93-715). This legislation permitted counties to replace the Homeowner exemption for one assessment cycle with an exemption that limited the increase in a property's EAV to seven percent each year, up to a maximum amount of $20,000 in each year of the assessment period. Cook was the only county to implement the exemption. It was first effective for the 2003 tax year for property in the City of Chicago assessment triad and remained in effect for the 2004 and 2005 tax years. The exemption applied to properties in the North and Northwest Suburban assessment triennial cycle for tax years 2004-06 and to properties in the South and Southwest Suburban assessment triennial cycle for tax years 2005-07.

In 2010 the exemption was reauthorized for one additional assessment cycle, with modifications (Public Act 96-1418). Under this legislation, the maximum exemption amount in the year of reassessment was maintained at $20,000, then reduced to $16,000 and $12,000 for the second and third years of the assessment cycle, respectively. The legislation applied for tax years 2009-11 in the City of Chicago assessment triennial cycle, tax years 2010-12 in the North and Northwest Suburban assessment triennial and tax years 2011-13 in the South and Southwest Suburban assessment triennial.

⁶ The Taxpayers' Federation of Illinois commissioned a 1993 study by Mayor Harold Washington's Comptroller and lead author Ronald Picur was titled: Taxation Without Explanation: The Illinois Property Tax System in which Andrea Raila drafted Chapter 4 on Cook County's assessment performance. The 1993 property tax study for assessment accuracy used nationally recognized assessment measurements and sales ratio tests and rated Cook County's assessment performance as poor and below assessment standards. The 1993 Taxpayers' Federation study of deviations from acceptable assessment standards mirrored the May 2017 Cook County Assessment Study featured in the Chicago Tribune article "The Tax Divide" 24 years later. The 1993 Taxation Without Explanation assessment study was unprecedented, showing that both Illinois' 101 assessment counties and Cook County (which draws 45% of the state property tax dollars) with its unique classification system like none of the other 101 counties pitted homeowners against businesses. Taxation Without Explanation study disclosed that higher home values had lower property taxes as a percentage of market value than lower market valued homes.

At the request of Cook County Assessor Thomas Hynes, the Civic Federation did not issue Taxation Without Explanation an ISBN number--- an essential product identifier used by publishers, libraries, internet retailers for publication. To this day a copy of this study is very difficult to find.

Preceding the 1993 Taxation study, Professor Arthur Lyons, in 1972 under a Chicago grassroots organization Citizens Action Program (CAP), found that properties in the black neighborhood of South Shore were over-assessed by an average of 33% above the city-wide average (Chicago Defender, 25 November 1972). Later that decade, Mr. Lyons an economics professor at the University of Illinois at Chicago, would conduct a city-wide study of assessment levels, and similarly found that homes in black neighborhoods were assessed at a far higher percentage of market value than those in white neighborhoods (Lyons: 1978 Assessment Ratios for Townships and Selected Neighborhoods in Cook County, Illinois: A Study in Nonuniformity. School of Urban Sciences, University of Illinois at Chicago). Ms. Raila worked with Mr. Lyons, both as tax analysts and decision makers at the Cook County Board of Tax Appeals in the 1980s.

In 1993 Taxation Without Representation researchers categorized all Illinois property tax statutes from 1981 – 1991. In 2018 TRAEN researchers again studied all Illinois property tax statutes from 2007 – 2017 to compare these two decades' impact on property tax legislation. The charts here summarize the changes:

⁷ LEGISLATIVE INTENTION & MARKET VALUE LIMITATION on CERTAIN HOMESTEAD EXEMPTIONS

Longtime Owner Occupant

1989. HB 2116. House Interim Study Calendar.

Created the Longtime Owner-Occupant Property Tax Relief Act. The legislation permitted counties having a population of 100,000 or more to adopt property tax relief provisions granting an exemption or deferral or combination thereof in order to allow longtime owner-occupants of residences to remain in possession of their homes. The relief was for payment of the portion of property taxes due to an increase in the market value of the property as a consequence of the refurbishing or renovating of other residences or the construction of new residences in long-established residential areas or areas of deteriorated, vacant or abandoned homes and properties. Relief could be granted until the longtime owner-occupant transferred title to the property. Municipalities and school districts were permitted to opt-out of any relief provisions adopted by a county.

1991. HB 2193. Added by House Amendment #1; deleted by House Amendment #4. Created the Longtime Owner-Occupant Property Tax Relief Act. The relief was for payment of the portion of property taxes due to an increase in the market value of the property as a consequence of the refurbishing or renovating of other residences or the construction of new residences in long-established residential areas or areas of deteriorated, vacant or abandoned homes and properties. Relief could be granted until the longtime owner-occupant transferred title to the property. The Act permitted counties having a population of 100,000 or more to adopt property tax relief provisions granting an exemption or deferral or combination thereof in order to allow longtime owner-occupants of residences to remain in possession of their homes. The relief was for payment of the portion of property taxes due to an increase in the market value of the property as a consequence of the refurbishing or renovating of other residences or the construction of new residences in long-established residential areas or areas of deteriorated, vacant or abandoned homes and properties. Relief could be granted until the longtime owner-occupant transferred title to the property. Municipalities and school districts were permitted to opt-out of any relief provisions adopted by a county.

1994. HB 3845. House – Held on 2nd Reading

The established criteria were: the property must be owned and occupied by a longtime owner-occupant, and the property is the principal residence and domicile of the longtime owner-occupant.

1994. SB 1369. PA 88-669

Amended the Longtime Owner-Occupant Property Tax Relief Act. Permitted counties to impose additional criteria for qualifying for relief. The established criteria were: the property must be owned and occupied by a longtime owner-occupant, and the property is the principal residence and domicile of the longtime owner-occupant.

Expanded the Longtime Owner-Occupant Property Tax Relief Act to all counties.

1998. HB 3576. House Rules Committee.

Required the City of Chicago and the Chicago Board of Education to participate in property tax relief granted by Cook County under the Longtime Owner-Occupant Property Tax Relief Act.

1998. SB 1370. PA 90-648.

Required the City of Chicago and the Chicago Board of Education to participate in property tax relief granted by Cook County under the Longtime Owner-Occupant Property Tax Relief Act.

2000. SJR 43. Adopted

Urged the Cook County Board to exercise its authority under the Longtime Owner-Occupant Property Tax Relief Act and grant an exemption and/or deferral to reduce the property tax burden for longtime homeowners in areas affected by dramatic increases in assessments due to development.

- In 2001 the Cook County Board passed the Longtime Homeowner Exemption Ordinance (01-O-12). The introduced ordinance included a market value cap of $300,000, but this provision was removed prior to passage. The introduced and passed ordinances include an exemption eligibility criterion requiring the property to have an assessed value increase that exceeds 150% of the current average assessed value increase for Class 2 properties in the assessment district where the property is located.

2003. SB 1498, House Amendment #2. Senate – Concurrence

Restricted relief under the Longtime Owner-Occupant Property Tax Relief Act to $25,000 in equalized assessed value per year--which was a market value of $101,634.

2004. SB 2112. PA 93-715.

Restricted relief under the Longtime Owner-Occupant Property Tax Relief Act to $20,000 in equalized assessed value per year--which was a market value of $77,649.

Gentrification Exemption

1998. SBs 53 and 1371. Senate Rules Committee

Created a Gentrification exemption. Provided an exemption for homestead property qualified under the Longtime Owner-Occupant Property Tax Relief Act. Limited the exemption amount to the increase in the market value of the property as a consequence of the refurbishing or renovation of other residences or the construction of new residences in long-established residential areas or areas of deteriorated, vacant, or abandoned homes and properties. Provided for the exemption to be granted until the longtime owner occupant transfers title to the property.

Senior Citizens Assessment Freeze Exemption

2007. HB 2794. House Revenue Committee.

Amended the Senior Citizens Assessment Freeze exemption to limit the base year equalized assessed value of a residence to $166,670--which was a market value of $366,288.

2009. SB 2032. Senate Revenue Committee, Subcommittee on Property Taxes.

For property that qualifies for the Senior Citizens Assessment Freeze exemption, provided for an abatement of taxes in an amount equal to 50% of the property taxes attributable to the first $200,000 market value of the residence.

Senior Citizens Homestead Protection Exemption

1992. SB 1837. Senate Rules Committee.

Created the Senior Citizens Homestead Protection Exemption. The exemption amount was a reduction equal to the difference between the equalized assessed value in the current assessment year and 100% of the equalized assessed value in the preceding year. The exemption applied to properties with equalized assessed value of $50,000 or less--which was a market value of $149,543.

⁹ VeteransUnited.com Only the 70-100% Disability Veteran's Exemption in Cook County caps the 250,000 [EAV (divided by 2.9160 state multiplier divided by 10% assessment level) equal to a cap at a $857,339 Market Value. The average Cook County veteran's home is $242,918; the average in the 6 collar counties is $224,260 and the rest of Illinois' counties have an average disabled veteran exemption home value of $135,000. All disabled veteran's homes are 100% tax exempt only if they do not exceed the EAV 250,000 limit ($858,841 market value limit).

Example: a Chicago tax bill for PIN 14-18-128-030-0000 with a market value of $893,600 and an EAV of 260,574, which exceeds the statutory EAV capped at 250,000. The disabled veteran had to pay $1,223 in taxes. A Chicago tax bill with just the standard Homeowner exemption would have been $18,188, but in this example the Disabled Veteran Exemption removed $16,965 in tax breaks. For an average property with a market value of $250,000 and an EAV of 72,773, a tax bill with a Veteran's exemption would total tax savings of $7,164. At the current maximum EAV of 250,000 x average Cook County tax rate of .1179, tax savings = $28,296. Policymakers should reassess whether the Veteran's exemption for a $4,700 tax bill on an average $240,000 Chicago home (tax rate of .06786) was intended to grant tax relief of $28,296, more than 6 times the average benefit.

¹⁰ TRAEN sponsored: PA 99-164 Requires the Assessor to cancel homestead exemptions following a home transfer if exemptions are not applied for or the property ceases to qualify for the exemption. PA 99-851 Provides for notification to the Assessor when residential property is not occupied by its owner on January 1 of the tax year. Precludes an exemption applied after notification from being considered erroneous with penalties and interest.

Preface

There have been complaints about the property tax at least since 1086 when William the Conqueror sent his commissioners throughout England to identify every piece of real and personal property for the Domesday (Day of Judgment) Book.

For all its possible faults, the tax on property endures. Indeed, in 1992 the Illinois real estate tax generated $10 billion for 6,000 local governments—more than the personal income tax, state sales tax, and Illinois lottery proceeds combined. The property tax does have its virtues: stable, predictable revenues; and real estate is—to say the least—difficult to hide from taxation.

Taxpayer exasperation with the tax, however, tarnishes its reputation. As author Ronald D. Picur points out in this exhaustive study, the Illinois property tax is complex, poorly understood, and appreciated even less. The quality of assessment (appraisal) and administration can clearly stand improvement in many jurisdictions.

This year of 1993 offers an unusually propitious opportunity to re-form, literally, the property tax system and make it fairer and clearer for all of us. The Director's Property Tax Advisory Committee, created by Illinois Revenue Director Douglas L. Whitley in 1991, has completed a 500-page proposed recodification of the Illinois Revenue Act of 1939 (the property tax statutes). This fundamental reorganization and clarification of existing property tax law (which has become so jerrybuilt over the decades that experts often lose their way) will make it possible for the first time to address substantive change in the property tax system in a systematic manner.

Cook County Assessor Thomas C. Hynes, not satisfied with the numerous improvements made in that office during his tenure, has appointed a distinguished panel to evaluate his huge, complex operation and make recommendations for further change. In addition, state lawmakers also appear eager to participate in reform of this venerable yet increasingly criticized tax.

As will become evident in this book, Professor Picur is one of the nation's leading students of the property tax. Following a description, explanation, overview, and analysis of the Illinois property tax system, unprecedented in detail, he offers scores of options for constructive change.

The deficiencies and criticisms noted in Taxation Without Explanation are directed at the system, not at individual officeholders. There will be sharp disagreement with Dr. Picur on several of his options, and we welcome the debate and discussion sure to follow some of the more controversial offerings. For example, he suggests abolition of elected township assessors. There are, however, a number of highly professional and talented elected township assessors in Illinois who would undoubtedly take issue with this option. (By the way, this was also recommended in 1917 by Gov. Frank Lowden, Illinois' most famous reform governor, to little effect.)

The Taxpayers' Federation of Illinois is pleased to publish this important work, which we feel will become a valuable reference book and guide to reform. The Federation was established in 1941, just two years after the Illinois Revenue Act was enacted. Thus it is fitting that we contribute Professor Picur's analysis and options to all the good people who toil in the tangled vineyards of the Illinois property tax system.

Acknowledgments

The assistance of the Taxpayers' Federation of Illinois in conducting this research study is gratefully acknowledged. This book adds to the distinguished series of reports, legislative issues, and reference guides the Federation has provided to the citizens of Illinois over the past 52 years.

I wish to thank James Nowlan, the president of the Federation, for his continued support and encouragement to pursue this topic. His commitment to reform the Illinois property tax system was the primary motive for commissioning this research project.

This research study represents a follow-up to my legislative issue report Local Government Fiscal Practices in Illinois, published by the Taxpayers' Federation in 1991. One focus of that study was Illinois' unique property tax rate objection system. However, a more comprehensive study was necessary to examine the entire Illinois property tax system.

A project of this magnitude necessitated a delegation of tasks. Rowan Miranda, my co-author, conducted the background research in addition to drafting: Chapter 2, which quantitatively profiles the Illinois property tax system; Chapter 7, which reviews recent property tax reforms in other states; and Chapter 10, which proposes creation of an Illinois Property Tax Commission to implement our 42 proposals for structural change. Andrea Raila, a property tax consultant specializing in assessment appeals and former reviewer for the Board of (Tax) Appeals in Cook County, researched and drafted Chapter 4. I assumed responsibility for researching and writing the remainder of the study. The manuscript also benefited from critical comments from external reviewers.

Finally, I wish to express my appreciation to the University of Illinois at Chicago and, in particular, the Office for Governmental Accounting Research and Education for providing administrative support for this research.

Chapter 4

The Property Tax Assessment System

The purpose of this chapter is to examine and evaluate the Illinois property tax assessment system and its current application. National standards that measure assessment performance are utilized to evaluate the quality of Illinois assessments.

The assessment system plays a vital role in property taxation. It not only apportions tax burdens, but can also allow rate-restricted local units of government to increase levies. Assessments can represent the most important element of the entire property tax system to individual taxpayers.

Overview

The general role of the assessment process was described in Chapter 3. This chapter focuses on an in-depth examination of the structure, quality, and administrative practices associated with assessments in Illinois. The analysis includes findings and issues contained in four major sections:

Assessment System Structure will emphasize organizations and participants within the assessment system. This section examines assessment districts and counties across the state, and the qualifications and roles of key participants—i.e., township assessors, county supervisors of assessments, appeal and review board members, and state agencies.

Quality of Assessments will focus on inter-county comparisons of the assessment quality between the 101 counties outside of Cook. More localized township comparisons (i.e., intra-county) are also analyzed. Cook County merits separate examination, based on its size and unique classification system.

Administrative Practices will examine current property assessment practices, taxpayer reassessment notifications, and appeal processes.

Other Assessment Issues will describe such issues as farmland assessments, homestead exemptions, and certificate of error practices.

As noted in Chapter 1, by its very nature this study is a critical examination of the Illinois property tax system. For the sake of balance, it is important to acknowledge that systemic improvements have been implemented, often upon the initiative of those public officials who must administer this system. Such efforts are ongoing. For example, Cook County Assessor Thomas Hynes has recently appointed a task force to evaluate the complex operations of that office. In short, issues raised herein are a reflection of the inherent deficiencies of the Illinois property tax system, and should not be taken as personal criticisms of the competence of its many professional administrators.

Sources

This chapter's findings are largely based upon standards, techniques, and recommendations published by the International Association of Assessing Officers (IAAO). Much of the data was drawn from the Illinois Department of Revenue (DOR), which Cook County assessor, whose office actively fought the court ruling and associated process.

ISSUE: Notices of "Omitted Property" are not required to inform taxpayers of their statutory rights.

DISCUSSION: Omitted property consists of real property that was not included on the assessment rolls for any number of years, such that the associated property taxes were not paid. Once the omitted property is discovered, a notice is sent to the taxpayer proposing an increase in assessment. The board of review (or the assessor in Cook County) will subsequently list and assess the property upon discovery.

Standard appeal rules on the new assessment are not available to taxpayers. Taxpayers are not granted standing with appeal and/or review boards because those entities lack jurisdiction to hear such complaints.

While notices do provide taxpayers with a hearing to contest the back taxes on the omitted property, the property owners are not alerted of their statutory rights regarding such payments. Specifically, no charges for taxes of previous years are due if: (1) the real property was last assessed as improved; (2) the owner gave notice of improvements; or (3) a reassessment of the discovered property was not made within 16 months following receipt of the omitted property notice (Ill. Rev. Stat. Ch. 120 par. 701-703).

ISSUE: Despite changes in farmland assessment procedures, a shift in tax burden has resulted in the Illinois "farmland tax paradox."

DISCUSSION: During the 1980s, rural assessment districts experienced population declines, an aging population, and a decline in property tax collections. One result was that the General Assembly passed a new farmland assessment formula which calculated assessment per acre on the basis of capitalized net income.

Even though some of the tax burden was then shifted onto nonfarm property, farmers still experienced higher tax burdens. This phenomena has been termed the "farmland tax paradox." That is, even as farmland assessments dropped, the value of farmland declined even faster. Thus, farmers were left paying a greater share of their income in the form of property taxes, even though property assessments were income-based. (See the Illinois Economic and Fiscal Commission's 1990 report for more information.)

Summary

Major shortcomings in Illinois' property tax assessment stem from the following factors:

- Three different assessment and appeal systems exist within the state.
- The property classification system creates a dual structure; primary assessment units are not required to maintain the same assessment level throughout the state.
- A large number of small, primary assessment districts exist, containing too few property parcels to be efficient.
- County supervisors of assessments have no enforcement powers to ensure that elected township assessors perform assessment uniformly.
- Assessors, who have the primary responsibility for setting first assessments, are frequently part-time officials.

- Illinois statutes do not provide for uniform professional qualification or certification requirements.
- There are no incentives or uniform professional requirements for independent appeal boards and board of review members.
- Judged against national standards and state statistical ratings, statewide assessment quality falls below acceptable levels.
- Substandard assessment practices cause property taxes to become more regressive.
- Cook County's unique classification system causes inequities between property classes and also results in a high state equalizer.
- Taxpayer confusion is associated with Cook County's classification system.
- Illinois statutes require the state to create aggregate assessment compliance (to the statutory 33.3 percent level) through application of the state equalizer.
- Significant differences exist statewide, in the nature of reassessment notices, and can result in minimal taxpayer information being provided.
- Appeal standards effectively place the burden of proof upon the taxpayer.
- Cumbersome and confusing assessment appeal procedures are often the rule.
- A dual-appeal system often results in unequal taxpayer access across the state.

Andrea Raila, President,

Training, Research, Advocacy, and Education Network (TRAEN, Inc.)

Testified for 4 days before the Property Tax Relief Task Force on several property tax reform measures, including inequitable tax breaks given to the wealthiest homeowners

make a determination on the assessment rate. Yingling asked if he believed people were using the appeals process to avoid paying their fair share of property taxes, and eventually shifting the property tax burden to other property owners. Kaegi agreed if property tax owners are winning their appeals. This is why he thought it was so important for the assessment to be accurate at the beginning. Kaegi noted, other states have just flat rates, while Illinois starts the property tax system by determining the levy wanted by a taxing body.

- viii. Representative Ramirez noted, her district was seeing increased property taxes from increasing land values. She asked how SB 1379 would impact gentrifying neighborhoods like Humboldt Park. Kaegi responded by saying, first, homeowners need to be aware of the exemptions they may be eligible for. For example, the Long-time Occupant Homestead Exemption. Second, Kaegi noted, over the past few years, residential assessments were increasing in Chicago, while commercial assessments were not. If commercial assessments are done correctly, it will impact residential property. He also said more data would allow for a better understanding of what is happening in individual neighborhoods.
- ix. Representative Meyers-Martin asked about other states, where there is a flat assessment rate, and if they have as many taxing bodies as Illinois. Kaegi responded by saying, the short answer is no other states don't have as many taxing bodies as Illinois. He noted Illinois starts with a levy that is needed by each taxing body and then it grows into a rate by spreading the levy across the assessed value in a community. He said other states among the taxing bodies agree how one rate will be split among the taxing bodies. Kaegi reiterated that he wanted to have better data when his office reassesses the South Suburbs.
- x. Yingling asked what the Long-time Occupant Homestead Exemption was. Kaegi did not know if it was only in effect in Cook County. It provided two tests – one for a household income of $100,000 or less, and two, for a recent increase in neighborhood values. Yingling asked Kaegi to explain the privacy protections in his bill. The data submitted under the bill is not subject to the Freedom of Information Act, while the same data that is submitted through the appeals process is subject to FOIA. Therefore, the bill sets a higher standard of privacy. He also noted, his office could only use compiled anatomized information. Finally, he noted his bill has the same penalties IDOR uses for anyone giving out information.
- b. Chairman Davis asked committee members if additional information was needed for committee consideration.
 - i. Chairman Davis requested a list of Property Tax Exemptions from Kaegi.
 - ii. Chairman Davis asked Kaegi to invite other County Assessors to testify.

IV. New Business

- a. Representative Ramirez asked Kaegi to provide examples of property tax relief exemptions that have been used successfully. And to accompany them with the pros and cons data of such exemptions.

II. Approval of Meeting Minutes

- a. Due to the lack of a quorum the minutes of the September 13, 2019, Assessments & Exemptions Subcommittee were not adopted.

- a. Andrea Raila, President, Training, Research, Advocacy & Education Network testified. She supported Rep. Didech's recommendation and believes what could be added to his proposal is additional money ($1 billion) from a graduated income tax. The $1 billion could be given directly as a refund to all homeowners who hold an exemption. That would increase the refund from the proposed $200 to $600 and this would have a greater impact. Raila said the subcommittee should consider capping of tri-annual and quadrennial re-assessments tied to the Consumer Price Index and inflation rate. She noted property taxes are the most regressive tax based on a fixed asset, not a liquid asset, and it is driving people out of their homes. Raila brought attention to a story in Cook County that found Certificates of Corrections have been issued in New Trier allowing for a reassessment using FEMA maps, lowering the property tax bill for wealthier residents of Cook County. She said the Certificate of Correction process should be used in areas that are suffering from significant foreclosures to provide property tax relief in the black and brown communities.
- i. Davis noted the focus of the story and reassessment focused on very wealth areas, but flood plain properties exist in some of these black and brown communities He asked Raila if this same type of action was taken in the black and brown communities that were impacted by a flood plain and resulted in reduced taxes, would she have the same issues? Raila noted her objection was that the reassessment was performed through the Certificate of Correction process and said the entire system must be fair and transparent.
 - ii. Ford said he wrote to the Cook County assessor stating black and brown communities have been over assessed. He thought the first thing the assessor would have done was to take care of those communities. Now that there is a model (Certificate of Correction), he said it was time to use it.
 - iii. Raila noted the 2009 General Assembly passed one of the most important laws in property tax code in her mind that allowed assessors to take into account heavily foreclosed on areas with short sales, foreclosures, and auctions. In those areas, they can move away the national standards of assessment practice and take the hedonic effect into account to lower the community's assessments. This can be done now, and appeals have been put in to make that request but are routinely rejected even though it's a law on the books. She noted it was wrong that in one county the tax rates among communities have a variance greater than 200% and that the tax rates should be even, why are the rates so much higher in the black and brown communities? It is said that there is not enough of an industry base there.
- b. Anthony Travis, Homeowner in the Village of Riverdale testified next. Travis suggested the sub-committee study Proposition 13 from California. Proposition 13 takes the assessor out the assessment process. Travis shared his personal experience in that he owned an approximately 1,000 square-foot home that had a market value of $100,000. He became ill and could not pay his property tax bill. He appealed and it was denied. His house went up for auction and was sold for $24,000. He borrowed the money to buy his house back. He went through the but the incentives are for the business owner not the property owner.

IV. Guest Presentations - Andrea Raila President TRAEN (Train Research Advocacy Education Network).

- a. There are 9 property tax exemptions in Cook County that are made by either Cook County or the State of Illinois. Raila called for understanding the value of those exemptions. Illinois is only one of three states that has a Veterans Property Tax exemption. The long-time homeowner's exemption is sunseting. Raila provided data showing that some of these homeowners are living in million-dollar homes that are receiving substantial reductions in property tax while there are no homeowner's exemptions in the south suburbs. She claimed those homeowners are not aware of this exemption. She spoke about the Senior Citizen Freeze exemption and pointed to an example of a $1.4 million home that receives a $30,000 property tax reduction. Raila called for market value limitations for the long-time homeowner's exemption and the Senior Citizen Freeze exemptions to ensure that the neediest are receiving the exemptions. When creating new exemptions lawmakers need to understand how the distribution of property taxes will occur. In 2010 the General Assembly passed a bill that says assessors doesn't have to completely abide by assessment standards if they are assessing an area that has a high number of foreclosures. Raila also mentioned that TRAEN is an advocate of changing the current classification system in Cook County to the 33.33% assessed value.
- b. Yingling asked if the long-time homeowner's exemption is only available in Cook County? Raila believed each county must institute the exemption. Yingling asked if she would argue we need to restructure our entire tax system or just the property tax system? Did she think there is a way to restructure the property tax system without identifying other forms of revenue? Raila believed just the property tax system as there were other forms of revenues that no one is acting on. She called for a consumption tax. In New York City they tax multi-million homes with a one-time transfer tax. And consider a special service tax for the forest preserves. Yingling said his constituents believed property taxes were unfair, and were willing to pay more in other taxes to offset property taxes.
- c. Senator Martwick asked about her statement that reassessments occurring in the north tri are not providing businesses with tax relief. Would you speak to that please? Raila said TRAEN randomly sampled every tri-annual township and looked at 30 business properties and 30 multi-unit buildings-like apartments. TRAEN saw the increase in taxes and of those 60 properties, 90% filed an appeal. In the same area TRAEN randomly sampled 40 homeowners and only half of those filed an appeal. Over 50% of those homeowners filing an appeal received a reduction. Less than 1% of the commercial property owners filing appeals received tax relief.

V. Guest Presentations – Carol Portman, President of the Taxpayers' Federation of Illinois. Citizens complain about the property tax system for two reasons. First, property taxes are too high. Second, citizens do not trust the system. On the assessment side, TFI concerns with the Cook County Assessors bill are only technical in nature. Portman believed we can eventually work out these issues. TFI does believe the Cook County's Assessors proposed bill should be optional only. TFI believes the methodology for the assessment process should be public thereby increasing citizens confidence in the process. Good tax policy says that taxes should be applied equally to everyone everywhere. It follows then that no property tax exemptions should be available to anyone. But that is not Illinois' system. Exemptions are an area that needs to be rightsized. Exemptions should be means tested.

- a. Martwick asked Portman to address the long-time homeowner's exemption. Portman said this exemption is only available in Cook County and the time for other counties to opt-in has expired. This protection only benefited those communities where property values were growing.
- b. Chairman Davis asked about the Cook County Assessors' bill how she said said other jurisdictions that have an optional program also have subpoena power. He asked her if she thought Illinois should have subpoena power as well. Portman said no.

VI. New Business

- a. The subcommittee will need to produce a preliminary report by October 11, 2019.
- b. The subcommittee will meet on October 11, 2019, at 2:00pm.

VII. Public Comment

- a. Spencer Staton
 - i. What would a world class property tax system look like and how would that happen? The Department of Revenue has a statutory mandate to ensure all assessments are just and equal. The Department is only funded at $5.8 M to implement this mandate. Technology should be provided to the counties that help assure accurate assessments. The assessments should be published on a public database. More training is needed. Better analytics need to be available to the counties. Should there be more robust Inspector General powers to make sure assessors are doing their job properly and not favoring one homeowner or business over another? Should there be claw back provisions included in the property tax code? Ask the Department of Revenue what it would look like if all exemptions were sunset. Exemptions should be means tested. In regard to BOMA's presentation – shifting to 33.33% would be too great a tax shift. Staton concluded by saying this committee should step back to the first principles and determine what is truly being accomplished with property taxes.

II. Open Discussion.

- I. Host Derek Harris welcomed everyone and introduced Representative Mary Flowers.
- II. Harris explained the law and the purpose of the Task Force.
- III. Representative Flowers pointed to recent Chicago Tribune articles that articulated what is happened to people with property taxes. She explained she was just in Cole County, and she heard the same concerns there as in Chicago about disparities in property taxes and inequalities. The Chicago Tribune and ProPublica showed how lower income people were subsidizing richer people's property taxes. Flowers said that the people on stage will help illuminate the problem. Flowers explained that she had been traveling the state for this Task Force, and the purpose of the meeting was to hear from the community. Flowers said she heard from a township assessor when they were in Cole County who had good ideas. Flowers said she felt the law focused on using a racial and economic lens to identify issues with property taxes. She says other politicians have claimed poorer people did not want to have great neighborhoods, but she said it was misnomer.

from 6 months to a year to give a person time to either sell or rent their home.

III. Public Comment

- I. Mike Carlin wanted to speak about the troubled building initiative that is funded through HUD, other state funding, bank funding and tax buyers. In 2013, he went down to the building courts. He's seen a lot of homes be taken through this process, especially in Bronzeville. Reads statute on troubled building initiative which allows for city departments to move in on homes that are deemed trouble. The city then files case against dilapidated house and puts pressure on owner. If the owner doesn't do anything, it can petition to take away the home, and courts can slap a lien on it, and foreclosure on the property. Usually the property owner unloads it as quickly as possible. Carlin believed the program was targeting senior citizens and targeting people who have criminal infractions. He said that often times people go in to work with the city or through non-profits (including the Community Investment Corporation) on improving their property, and through the inspection process finds themselves in building court quickly.
 - i. Flowers agreed with Carlin. She said any process should include restoration for the people who had homes taken away from them. She said people have lost their livelihood due to property taxes.
 - ii. Carlin believed that many of these organizations and contractors were systematically working against people to take their homes. Fellows relayed a story about how they were trying to throw out a grandmother whose grandson got into legal trouble on the property. Fellows said the city and lawyers try to intimidate them out of their homes.
 - iii. Professor Graves who runs a nonprofit helping people get apartments, said that she used to work with a slumlord, but she stopped working with him due to his poor management, but that the slumlord was often funded by the non-profits addressed. Flowers said that people are entitled to a healthy environment, and that poorer communities just want a good neighborhood back, especially since they are paying above their fair share.
- II. Andrea Raila worked on this issue for the Harold Washington administration, and they found the same "Tax Divide" back then. She said the discovery did not have the same impact as the Tribune article stories did. She agreed about the need for a disabled tax exemption since they only get $300 of relief. The state has a great exemption for veterans who are 70% disabled with a limit of $850,000. There's another exemption for long-term homeowners, but that it is only for Cook County, for people making less than $100,000. However, when she looked at the stats, she found only people on the north and northwest side seemed to be taking advantage of it, and homes were worth $1 million to $4 million. She said that no long-term exemptions were taken out on the southside. Raila said the senior freeze exemption was also being taken by wealthy landowners. Raila said exemptions should be looked at to help the people who are overburdened, and to put in caps for home worth. Raila said she wanted to have a disabled exemption that would forgive taxes for a year or two.
 - i. Flowers asked a clarifying question about the homeowners' exemptions. Raila said the exemptions could last forever, and the veterans exemption is - passed onto the spouse. Raila said that the long-term exemption must be filed every year, and seniors have to file every year until this year. Raila said it was great the legislature passed a bill that made it automatic. She said it was hard to monitor all the exemption programs from fraud or correctness. She said assessors' offices have to do a better job of education and monitoring. She noted that the long-term homeowners' exemption is only used by 2,000 homes, and all of them are on the north side. She said only Cook County allowed the exemption; the other 101 counties opted out. Flowers said it was unfair that wealthier neighborhoods were taking advantage of exemptions and appeals, making taxes go up elsewhere.

- ii. Harris asked for clarification, too. He said his groups' research showed the wealthiest make appeals at a much higher rate because they can afford it, so they'll be taxed less. Raila noted the story about how northern suburban homes also just saw their assessments drop due to FEMA flood maps.
- III. Mother Wade spoke next and said she agreed with most things. She worked in Chatman. She said that homes that used to be stable are no longer so. She said there had been an influx of foreign buyers grabbing everything. She says she pays way too much in taxes, especially because she lives near a train line, whose vibrations were destroying her house. She believed the system was designed to make her community lose her home. She also thought they were using mortgage value to find appraisal value.
- i. Raila said in 2016 that northside homes got appeals based on plane noise out of O'Hare. She believed someone like Mother Wade should get a tax break. She again noted that the assessor can open up townships assessments after they've been closed, which they did on the north side.
- IV. Devin Jones says he's being hammered by taxes, not just property taxes. Everyone is in a budget deficit. He worries that the taxes are just go somewhere else like the gas tax if the legislature seeks property tax relief. He called for consolidation, and more importantly a comprehensive package that doesn't just look at property taxes and everything is done at once. He says the legislature often just makes small changes and he would want a more comprehensive approach that simplifies the process, too. He also asked what desegregation would look like, since it sounds like gentrification to him.
- i. Flowers said laws sunset, so the legislature can review and make sure they're up to date. She said the purpose of the hearings was to take testimonies, to discuss policies and strategies. Some legislation will take longer, and some could be immediate relief. As part of segregation is concerned, she said intentional desegregation must be part of the plan. Flowers noted that the northside didn't use to be so nice and fancy but noted that revenues were able to stay in the community, and the southside ended up paying more in taxes.
- V. Harris wanted to do a summation of what was discussed. He said that the causes have been well studied and well addressed, and he encouraged that people should move onto solutions. He read the Property Tax Relief Task Force legislation again. He addressed causes. He said there's been an unfair shift in property tax burden. From a racial standpoint, minority communities are being particularly

Property Tax Relief Task Force created

SPRINGFIELD – This week marks one year since the legislation creating the Property Tax Relief Task Force was signed into law. Unfortunately, instead of celebrating reforms to provide relief to Illinois’ over-burdened property tax payers, the Senate Republican members of the Task Force are issuing a call for a renewed focus on this urgent issue.

Senate Republican Task Force members included Senators Dale Righter (R-Mattoon), Jil Tracy (R-Quincy), Dan McConchie (R-Hawthorn Woods), Craig Wilcox (R-McHenry), and Don DeWitte (R-St. Charles).

“While I certainly had concerns that this would be another case of ‘form a task force, hold a bunch of meetings, and develop recommendations that never come to fruition,’ I still went into this process with an open mind hoping for a robust dialogue on this issue that is so critical to so many in our state,” said Task Force member Senator Craig Wilcox. “It is unfortunate that a year later, my fears have proved true and we’re still without any substantial property tax reform at a time when Illinois families need it more than ever.”

Specific responsibilities of the Task Force included:

- Identifying the causes of increasingly burdensome property taxes across Illinois;
- Reviewing successful public policy strategies that create short-term and long-term property tax relief for homeowners; and
- Making recommendations about what steps Illinois government needs to take to provide property tax relief.

The group was split into seven subcommittees, each tasked with examining a specific area of property tax reform. These subcommittee topics included PTELL and local governments tax levy, TIF districts, local pensions, school funding and school property taxes, social and economic disparities, assessments and exemptions and government consolidation.

“Nobody will argue that there is a simple solution to property tax reform,” said Senator Jil Tracy who served as a co-chair. “It is, however, vital that we make a concerted effort to find real, bipartisan reforms that reduce the burden on property tax payers in Illinois.”

The Task Force, which included appointees selected by the Governor and legislative leaders, was to work with the Illinois Department of Revenue, the Governor's Office of Management and Budget, and the State Board of Education to take a deeper look at Illinois' property tax system and develop recommendations for reforms. In total, the group was comprised of 56 State Representatives, 30 State Senators, and two members appointed by Governor J.B. Pritzker.

"At the end of the day, a Task Force that includes nearly half of the General Assembly and no stakeholders from the community is unlikely to produce the kind of results our state so desperately needs," said Task Force member Senator Don DeWitte who served as a co-chair.

The Task Force was also required to provide an initial report outlining administrative, electoral and legislative changes to be submitted to the Governor's office and the General Assembly within 90 days, and a final report by Dec. 31, 2019. Unfortunately, neither of these reports were ever submitted.

"To have spent months attending meetings, only to have the Task Force devolve into partisan bickering was frustrating, to say the least," noted Task Force member Senator Dale Righter.

Senate Republican members of the Task Force say it's time to work together, in a truly bipartisan fashion to address issues like consolidating redundant layers of government; TIF district reform; reforming the assessment and appeals system to ensure it is fairly and accurately applied throughout the state; and reforming the appeals process to ensure connected politicians and lawyers don't profit off the convoluted property tax system in Illinois.

"The people of Illinois need more than smoke and mirrors," said Senator Dan McConchie. "They need relief."

Form PTR-1A – Instructions

Part I – To Be Completed by Applicant

Social Security Number. If your marital/civil union status as of December 31, 2019, was single, enter only your Social Security number in the space provided on Form PTR-1A. If your status as of December 31, 2019, was married/CU couple, you must report both applicants' numbers in the order in which the names are listed on the application. If you were married or in a civil union but living apart from your spouse/CU partner, and you did not have access to or receive support from their income, you are considered "Single" for purposes of the Property Tax Reimbursement. You should enter only your Social Security number on Form PTR-1A.

Name and Address. Print or type your name (last name first) and complete address of the property for which you are claiming the reimbursement in the spaces provided. Also include your spouse's/CU partner's name if filing jointly.

Block/Lot/Qualifier. Enter the block and lot numbers of the principal residence for which you are claiming the reimbursement in the spaces provided. Include qualifier if applicable. (Only condominiums may have qualifiers assigned to them.)

- A. Multiple Owners. Check "Yes" if you owned the property that was your principal residence with someone who was not your spouse/CU partner — even if the other owner(s) did not live there. For example, you and your sister owned the home you lived in. If you (and your spouse/CU partner) were the sole owner(s), check "No."
- B. Percentage of Ownership. If you answered "Yes" at line A, enter the share (percentage) of the property that you (and your spouse/CU partner) owned. For example, you and your spouse owned a home with your sister. Your sister did not live with you, and you and your spouse paid all the property taxes. You must enter 50% as your share of ownership because you and your spouse owned only one-half (50%) of the property. The shares of ownership of the property are considered to be held equally by all owners. If the shares of ownership are not equal, you must provide documentation as to the percentage of ownership.
- C. Multi-Unit Properties. Check "Yes" if your principal residence was a unit in a multi-unit property that you owned. For example, you owned a property consisting of four residential units and you occupied one of the units as your principal residence. If the property is not a multi-unit property, check "No."

NOTE: Residents of condominium complexes, co-ops, and continuing care retirement facilities are not considered to be living in multi-unit properties and should check "No."

- D. Percentage of Occupancy. If you answered "Yes" at line C, enter the share (percentage) of the property used as your principal residence. For example, you owned a four-unit property. The units are equal in size, and one of the units was your principal residence. You occupied one-fourth (25%) of the property as your principal residence. Enter 25% as your share of occupancy.

Part II – To Be Completed by Tax Collector

Enter the appropriate amounts for Calendar Years 2018 and 2019 as follows:

Line 1. Enter the assessed value of the property for each calendar year. If the assessed value changed for the tax year, use the final assessed value.

Line 2. Enter the tax rate for each calendar year. Include fire and other special tax rates.

Line 3. Multiply the assessed value on line 1 by the tax rate on line 2 and enter the result on line 3. This is the total amount of taxes due for each calendar year before any deductions and/or credits are subtracted (e.g., senior citizen's deduction, Homestead Benefit credit).

Line 4. Enter the amount of any Regional Efficiency Aid Program (REAP) credit the homeowner(s) received for each calendar year.

Line 5. If the applicant answered "No" to the questions at both line A and line C, enter the amount of property taxes from line 3.

If the applicant answered "Yes" at either line A or line C, you must apportion the amount of property taxes to be entered on line 5. If title to the property is held by the eligible applicant with others as tenants in common or joint tenants (except in the case of husband and wife or CU partners), or if the property consists of more than one unit, the applicant is only eligible for the proportionate share of the reimbursement that reflects the percentage of ownership or the percentage of occupancy.

Multiple Owners. If the applicant answered "Yes" at Part I, line A, multiply the amount of property taxes on line 3 by the percentage of ownership shown at Part I, line B, and enter the result on line 5.

Multi-Unit Properties. If the applicant answered "Yes" at Part I, line C, multiply the amount of property taxes on line 3 by the percentage of occupancy shown at Part I, line D, and enter the result on line 5.

If the applicant answered "Yes" to the questions at both lines A and C in the same year, multiply the amount of property taxes on line 3 by the percentage of occupancy shown at Part I, line D, and enter the result on line 5.

Certification. Complete the certification portion of Form PTR-1A. Sign and date the certification and place the authorization stamp in the space provided. (Use blue or black ink.)

What is the Senior Citizens Assessment Freeze Homestead Exemption ("Senior Freeze")?

The Senior Citizens Assessment Freeze Homestead Exemption (35 ILCS 200/15-172) allows you, as a qualified senior citizen, to have your home's equalized assessed value (EAV) "frozen" at a base year value and prevent or limit any increase due to inflation. The base year generally is the year before the year you first qualify and apply for the exemption. For example, if you first qualify and apply in 2019, your property's EAV will be "frozen" at the 2018 EAV. The amount of the exemption is the difference between your base year EAV and your current year EAV. In Cook County, the amount of the exemption is the difference between your base year EAV and your current year EAV or $2,000 whichever is greater. Freezing your property's EAV does not mean that your property taxes will not increase, however. Other factors also affect your tax bill. For example, your tax bill could increase if the tax rate, which is based on the amount of revenues taxing districts re-quest, increases. Your EAV and tax bill may also increase if you add improvements to your home. However, if your home's EAV decreases, you will benefit from any reduction.

Who is eligible?

The senior citizens assessment freeze homestead exemption qualifications for the 2019 tax year (for the property taxes you will pay in 2020), are listed below.

- You will be 65 or older during 2019.
- Your total household income in 2018 was $65,000 or less.
- On January 1, 2018, and January 1, 2019, you
 - used the property as your principal place of residence,
 - owned the property, or had a legal or equitable interest in the property as evidenced by a written instrument, or had a leasehold interest in the property used as a single-family residence, and
 - were liable for the payment of property taxes.

You do not qualify for this exemption if your property is assessed under the mobile home privilege tax.

Surviving spouse — Even if you are not 65 or older during 2019, you are eligible for this exemption for 2019 (and possibly 2018) if your spouse died in 2019 and would have met all of the qualifications.

Residents in a health facility — Even if you did not use the property as your principal place of residence on January 1, 2019, you qualify for this exemption if you are a resident of a facility licensed under the Assisted Living and Shared Housing Act, Nursing Home Care Act, ID/DD (intellectually disabled/developmentally disabled) Community Care Act, or Specialized Mental Health Rehabilitation Act of 2013 and you meet all other requirements, have received this exemption previously, and your property is either unoccupied or is occupied by your spouse.

Residents of cooperatives — If you are a resident of a cooperative apartment building or cooperative life-care facility, you qualify for this exemption if you are liable for the payment of the property taxes on your residence and meet the other eligibility requirements.

A household includes you, your spouse, and all other persons who used your residence as a principal dwelling place on January 1, 2019.

Disabled Veterans Standard Homeowner Exemption

General Information

What is the Disabled Veterans Standard Homeowner Exemption?

The Disabled Veterans Standard Homeowner Exemption provides an annual reduction in the Equalized Assessed Value (EAV) on the primary residence occupied by a disabled veteran on January 1st of the assessment year. The amount of the exemption each year depends on the percentage of the disabled veteran's service connected disability as certified by the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs. A disabled veteran at least 70% disabled will be completely exempt from property taxes. A disabled veteran with at least a 50% to 69% service-connected disability will receive an annual $5,000 reduction in EAV. A veteran with a 30% to 49% service-connected disability will receive an annual $2,500 reduction in EAV.

Who is eligible?

To qualify for the Disabled Veterans Standard Homeowner Exemption, the veteran must meet the following requirements

- Be an Illinois resident who has served as a member of the U.S. Armed Forces on active duty or State active duty, Illinois National Guard or U.S. Reserve Forces and have been honorably discharged.
- Have at least a 30% service-connected disability certified by the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs,
- Own and occupy the property as the primary residence on January 1st of the assessment year and
- Have a total EAV for the primary residence of less than $250,000, excluding the EAV of property used for commercial purposes or rented for more than six months

Note: The property's total EAV must be less than $250,000 after subtracting any portion used for commercial purposes. Commercial purposes include any portion of the property rented for more than six months.

A non-remarried surviving spouse of a disabled veteran can continue to receive this exemption on the spouse's homestead property or transfer this exemption to a new primary residence. To qualify, the surviving spouse must meet the following requirements:

- Sell the disabled veteran's previous property before transferring the exemption to his or her new primary residence, and
- Occupy the property as the primary residence and hold a legal or beneficial title to the property on January 1st of the assessment year.

What types of documentation must be provided with this form as proof of my disability?

Applicants are required to please include a disability certification or verification letter from the U.S. Department of Veterans Affairs (VA) stating the applicant [veteran] has a service-connected disability for the assessment year being applied for. The document must also specify the percentage of that service-connected disability. Application forms cannot be processed without such a document.

Also required is one of the following documents that is the original or a copy certified by the county recorder, record of deeds, Illinois Department of Veterans Affairs or the National Archives Record Center.

- Form DD214 or separation of service from the War Department (military service prior to 1950); or
- Certification of Military Service Form.

A non-remarried surviving spouse of a disabled veteran applying for the first time or transferring the exemption must also provide the disabled veteran's marriage and death certificates and proof of ownership.

When will I receive my exemption?

The year that you apply for this exemption is referred to as the assessment year. If your exemption is granted, it will be applied to the property tax bills that are paid the year following the assessment year.

What are the different types of homeowner exemptions available for disabled persons and/or veterans?

The Disabled Veterans Homestead Exemption allows for up to a $70,000 reduction in assessed value for federally approved, specially adapted housing. This exemption is administered and certified by the Illinois Department of Veterans Affairs. Three additional exemptions are administered by the Cook County Assessor's Office. The Disabled Persons Homeowner Exemption allows for an annual $2,000 reduction in EAV and the Disabled Veterans Standard Homeowner Exemption allows for an annual reduction of $2,500 or $5,000 in a property's EAV. Please Note: you can claim only one of the three exemptions referenced above. A Returning Veterans Homeowner Exemption is also available to veterans returning from active duty. This exemption allows for a $5,000 reduction in EAV and may be received in addition to any of the other exemptions referenced above.

When and where must I file?

You must apply for this exemption each year with the Cook County Assessor's Office by the due date in order to receive this exemption. For additional information or assistance in filing this application, please contact the Cook County Assessor's Office. The office's address and telephone number are atop this page.

Longtime Occupancy Exemption

The Longtime Occupancy Exemption is granted to help longtime homeowners living at least 10 years in gentrifying neighborhoods with new development, and were faced with unpredictable, escalating tax bills due to rapid rehab, demolition sales for land acquisition and redevelopment. Longtime Occupancy qualifications require maximum income capped at $75,000 then increased to $100,000 and do not claim homeowner exemptions on other residences in order to get substantial property tax breaks as seen here.

- From 2002 to 2008 the property was 2 vacant lots.
- Prior owner began construction in 2009.
- Current owner purchased property in 2011 for $1,275,000.
- Current owner filed 6 successful vacancy appeals from 2011 to 2016.
- In 2008, Full Homestead exemption granted on 100% Vacant Land.
- From 2009 to 2016, Partial Homestead exemption granted, in addition to Vacancy Appeals.
- In 2018 the Longtime Occupancy Exemption was applied for and approved by April 2019, reducing taxes 87% from $53,549 to $6,803.
- To qualify for the Longtime exemption, the owner must have occupied the property for 10 years prior, i.e. since 2008.
- Current owner also receives a standard Homestead Exemption in Indiana.

The Longtime Occupancy Exemption was created to help longtime homeowners living at least 10 years in gentrifying neighborhoods with new development who were faced with unpredictable, escalating tax bills due to rapid rehab, demolition sales for land acquisition and redevelopment. Longtime Occupancy qualifications initially capped income at $75,000, then increased it to $100,000 and do not allow homeowner exemptions on secondary residences for substantial property tax breaks as seen here.

PROPERTY TAX SCORECARD

This Scorecard evaluates multiple criteria in three primary subject areas: (1) Transparency; (2) Consistency; and (3) Procedural Fairness. Each of the primary subject areas comprises three categories which, in turn, contain three sub-categories, and within each sub-category are three questions, making a total of twenty-seven items for grading. A detailed explanation of each sub-category follows the jurisdictional scoring table below. Each question was scored with a 0, 1, or a 2, with 0 representing “good”, 1 representing “average” and 2 representing “poor”. The individual question scores have then been totaled and a letter grade derived from this score for each of the categories (i.e., transparency, consistency and procedural fairness). The overall score for the jurisdiction has been converted to an alphabetical grade—arrived at by consideration of the various category scores—adopting the same method used with the previous scorecard.

Below is a table showing the grades for each jurisdiction overall and in the three primary subject areas. Following that is a detailed explanation of the specific areas being examined, with descriptions of the criteria used in scoring. After that, a detailed chart is provided with the specific basis for each jurisdiction’s grade. The detailed chart starts with the U.S. states and proceeds alphabetically through Australia (states), Canada (provinces), Hong Kong, Ireland, New Zealand, Singapore, South Africa, Spain, The Netherlands and the United Kingdom (countries).

This Scorecard is available on the website of both COST (www.cost.org) and IPTI (www.ipti.org).
